Our portrait is of Miss Nellie Thornton, of 79 Brighton street, Salford, Manchester, whose mother writes:—

"I am sending a photo of my little girl Nellie, who is now completely cured of Eczema by your 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' Her sufferings were unbearable, and she often wished herself dead. She was without healthy skin from head to foot, and could not hardly bear to stand, sit, or lie down. I took her to a skin hospital, and I kept her under their treatment for five months. They gave me ointments for her, but they did her no good. I then bought some 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' for her, and am now very thankful, for her life is due to the wonderful cure it made of her."

Clarke's Blood Mixture, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in all cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Boils, Pimples, and Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Gout, etc. Over 50 years' success. Pleasant to take, and free from anything injurious.

SPORTING NEWS.

DOWN ROYAL (MAZE) MEETING—SATURDAY.

The attendance at the Maze on Saturday was not as large as usual, but it was, nevertheless, of fine dimensions, and with the weather summer-like, and the racing very interesting, the afternoon proved a most enjoyable one. Five first favourites suffered defeat, but the winner in each of these races was well supported, so that backers did not do at all badly. For the principal event, the Maze Plate, Rory's Glen was installed favourite at 13 to 8, but the big Belfast contingent plumped for Coup d'Essai, who left off at 2 to 1, and scored a popular local victory over Rory's Glen by a couple of lengths, the filly thus atoning for her defeat by Belsize at Phœnix Park last March. The feature of the day's racing, however, was the success in the saddle of the veteran, Mr. Harry Beasley. He had the mount on Ganzey in the Foxhunters' Plate, for which Southampton left off in best demand. Entering the straight the latter seemed to have the issue in safe keeping, but when challenged by Ganzey, on whom Mr. Beasley rode a characteristic finish, he was unable to respond, Ganzey winning in a canter. It was confidently expected that Waving Queen would prove equal to the task set her in the Belfast Hurdle, but she was readily beaten by Llandolla. The Lagan Plate furnished a rare set-to between Parachute, Recruiter, and Slievenamon, the trio finishing in the order in which their names are written, the favourite, The Lossett, being unplaced. In Arms, The Moot, and Edgar's Gambler were the only ones supported to any extent for the Hilden Plate, and they passed the post in that order. In Arms winning rather easily, and the day's sport concluded with the success of the Dundalk winner, Hop Off, who floored the odds laid on Lombard for the Hillsborough Plate. Details:—

MANCHESTER MEETING—SATURDAY.

For the closing day of this event heavy rain gave way to sunshine, though the attendance again attained large proportions. An excellent field contested the Salford Borough Handicap, which evoked animated wagering. Sir Berkeley was again trusted to win, but at no period of the race did he flatter his followers. Peter Jones, on Viviani, made full use of his horse's speed, and, along with Western Wave, carried on. Bruff Bridge was always prominent, as also was Golden Orb. Half-way Bruff Bridge joined the leaders, but Western Wave drew away, to win cleverly from Bruff Bridge. Details:—

YACHTING.

Such weather as that of Saturday afternoon, with its downpour of heavy rain, leaves small scope for enjoyment in yachting, and yet, from a strictly sailing point of view, the day was by no means a bad one. There was a moderately steady little breeze from north-west throughout, and for the several courses in Dublin Bay its point of direction gave a variety in the sailing, which gave interest to the day's doings. The Royal Alfred Y.C. match was one for 25-footers, in which the amount of beating there was provided a capital test, while the 21-footers, 17-footers, and Wags, under the flag of the D.B.S.C., had each as equally keen a struggle in their respective classes. Details:—

ROYAL ALFRED Y.C.
THIRD RACE.—Match for 25-footers. No. 4 Course (shortened), 12 miles. Prizes—First £4, helmsman's prize £1; second, £2. Start at 3.5 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Punctilio (winner)—Messrs. Newsom and Stephens	5	31	18
Fodhla (2nd prize)—Mr. W. M. Curtis	5	31	48
Darthula—Mr. W. B. Graham	5	33	4
Eve—Mrs. Gordon Fraser and Mr. D. Turner	5	33	19
Acushla—Sir John Arnott	5	37	7
Alana—Mr. A. H. Seale	5	38	6

At the finish Darthula, Eve, and Alana flew protest flags.
Starting with full light weather canvas on a turn to windward, Punctilio, Alana, Acushla, Fodhla, and Eve, on varying tacks, had little between them as they crossed the line. Darthula, however, was some lengths astern, and, going away with the wind on the starboard hand, she at once made a long board towards the river. The others meantime stood seaward, but Eve early came about, and followed Darthula, and the two sections of the fleet did not again come together till after they had each made a second board, and were converging on the Bar Buoy on opposite tacks an hour or so later. Then it became apparent that those who had stood to the westward had done best, for both Darthula and Eve, as named, rounded the mark nicely ahead of the others. As it proved, however, the fortunes of the race had yet to be decided, for in the running and reaching which ensued round the Burfords, Punctilio and Fodhla travelled the fastest, and when next they were clearly discernible from shore through the thick rain, as they reached for home, this pair lead the fleet. In view of the hour and the unpleasant conditions of weather, they were stopped as they came into harbour, but as Darthula, Eve, and Alana all flew protest flags the prizes as given above are subject to the decision of the Committee.
The Rear Commodore was officer of the day.

DUBLIN BAY S.C.
CLASS II.—21-footers. Handicap for Club prizes. Usual Club course. Start at 3.20 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Maureen (winner) (scr.)—Mr. M. S. Orr	5	5	8
Oola (2nd prize) (1 min.)—Messrs. C. and J. Moore	6	7	2
Innisfallen (scr.)—Messrs. Nesbitt and Weir	6	8	22
Garravogue (scr.)—Mr. L. Gower	6	8	33
Geraldine (1 min.)—Mr. W. McDowell. Fouled mark

In this race also there was a protest, which remains to be heard before the prizes can be definitely awarded, and Oola it was who flew the signal at the close. Like the 25-footers, there was much beating in the opening stages of the race, and in this Maureen, who had lead away at the gun, did best. Afterwards, when running with spinnakers to Bullock, she held her lead, and, again, when tacking back to finish the round, she was always to weather of Oola and Innisfallen. Indeed, it was clearly Maureen's day, for, though practically overhauled when leaving harbour the second time, she soon shook off her opponents when down wind to the Bullock mark, and on the final beat home her position was never seriously threatened. Geraldine fouled the Bullock mark the last time round, reporting the matter as she came in.

CLASS III.—17-footers. Match for Club prizes. Usual Club course. Start at 3.25 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Eileen (winner)—Mr. J. E. Mills	5	34	8
Mimosa—Mr. J. B. Boyd	5	35	11

This was the 17-footers' first race of the season, and both started scratch. Only the two named came out for what was a very poor start, in which Mimosa got away well ahead, to be overhauled by Eileen on the beat to the Bar Buoy. It was then a run to Bullock, and afterwards ensued more beating for the final leg home. Throughout Eileen was leader, and at the close she took the winning gun over a minute ahead.

CLASS IV.—Wags. Handicap for Club prizes. Usual Club course. Start at 3.30 p.m. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Coquette (winner) (2 mins.)—Mr. G. H. Jones	5	13	5
Mollie (2nd prize) (1 min.)—Mr. A. B. Snow	5	15	51
Blue Bird (scr.)—Dr. G. P. Meldon	5	17	33
Tomboy (3rd prize) (2 mins.)—Messrs. Barrett and Donnelly	5	18	45
Vela (1 min.)—Messrs. Irwin and Geoghegan	5	19	26
Wendy (2 mins.)—Mr. E. H. Walpole. Gave up.

The Wags had a long turn to windward on the final leg of each round, and for the rest were for the most part down wind. Coquette slipped into the lead at once, and before the end of the first round had worked out an advantage which made her ultimate victory secure.

SOUTHEND TO HARWICH RACES.

These races were sailed on Saturday under the flag of the Royal Harwich Yacht Club. There was a light easterly breeze in the morning, which increased to a nice sailing breeze, but a hard rain squall was experienced just before the leading boats were off the gunfleet. In this squall Celia lost her bowsprit, so that Thanet was left in that race to finish alone. Up to that time the two had sailed a very keen and interesting race, Celia giving the impression of being a much improved boat on last year's form.

ALL-IRELAND CLUB.
LUCAN v. CLONSILLA.

The first six-chukkar game of the season was played on the ground of the All-Ireland Club, Phœnix Park, on Saturday, between teams representing Lucan and Clonsilla. It proved a well-contested game throughout, some of the chukkars being characterised by fast galloping and vigorous hitting, and with scores being registered in almost every period there was always an element of expectancy to maintain interest. The side representing Lucan asserted their superiority after the second chukkar, and ultimately won by six goals to four. At intervals Mr. T. P. Tyrrell and Captain Wyndham-Quin assisted the winners. Teams:—
Lucan—Mr. E. C. Roark, Captain Godman, Mr. J. Johnston, and Captain Roark.
Clonsilla—Captain de Pret, Captain S. A. Watt, Captain Goulding, and Mr. A. Balding.
Umpires—Mr. J. W. Shackleton and Mr. T. I. Roark.
The game had not been long in progress before Mr. Johnston opened the scoring for Lucan, and on changing ends Captain Goulding at once opened up the game for his side, who equalised through Capt. Watt. A capital individual effort by Mr. Johnston was a feature of the second chukkar, but, after carrying the ball almost the length of the ground, he lost possession, and play was returned to midfield by Captain de Pret and Mr. Balding, whose efforts were further improved by Capt. Watt, who added the second for Clonsilla. This was quickly followed by a further goal by Captain Goulding, but before the chukkar ended Captain Roark shot through the equaliser after some clever hitting. Mr. Tyrrell and Captain Quin materially helped their side in the succeeding chukkar, in which a shot by Mr. Roark was cleverly cleared by Captain Goulding, but Capt. Roark, regaining possession, scored the fourth, and the fifth was added for Lucan by the same player just before the bell sounded. Interval score:—
Lucan ...... 5 goals
Clonsilla ...... 3 goals
Captain Watt and Captain Goulding were several times prominent in this period, and Mr. Balding was on one occasion unlucky not to have reduced the lead. Lucan, however, were proving the cleverer side, and Captain Godman and Captain Roark were being held in check by Captain Goulding. Before the bell sounded, however, Captain Roark shot the sixth goal, and Mr. Johnston made two capital efforts to increase the lead. Few exchanges characterised the succeeding period, in which Capt. Watt reduced his opponents' advantage. In the final chukkar the play favoured Lucan, who were well served by Captain Roark and Mr. Johnston. Result:—
Lucan ...... 6 goals
Clonsilla ...... 4 goals

CLONDALKIN v. TERENURE.

A four-chukkar game between teams representing Clondalkin and Terenure followed, in which some good form was shown, but the sides chosen were not so well balanced as in the preceding game, and it proved rather one-sided, Terenure winning by 5 goals to nil. Teams:—
Clondalkin—Mr. J. Daly, Mr. T. I. Roark, Captain King-French, and Mr. J. W. Shackleton.
Terenure—Captain B. Daly, Mr. J. A. Trench, Hon. K. Mackay, and Colonel Pilkington.
Umpire—Captain Wyndham-Quin.
The exchanges in the early stages of the game were equitably divided, but, after Colonel Pilkington had cleared on a couple of occasions, Hon. K. Mackay got through to open the scoring. Mr. Trench came near adding the second, after which Mr. Daly and Mr. Roark were prominent. These players, with Captain King-French, kept play close to their opponents' goal in the succeeding ..., but Captain Daly ultimately broke away, and from far out Mr. Trench added the second with a capital shot. This player was again the medium of some clever hitting in the third chukkar, and Mr. Shackleton was kept busy defending. Further goals were scored by Captain Daly and Mr. Trench, and in the final chukkar Hon. K. Mackay added the fifth. Result:—
Terenure ...... 5 goals
Clondalkin ...... Nil.

SWIMMING.

IRISH CHAMPIONSHIPS.

The Half Mile Championship of Ireland, and 100 Yards (Ladies') Championship of Ireland will take place at the gala of the East End Swimming Club, to be held at the Waterworks, Antrim road, Belfast, on Saturday, 19th June, at 3 o'clock. The notice is very short for Leinster swimmers (who hold the first three places in each event) to get fit, as there are no facilities for training in Dublin earlier than June. The Belfast Corporation provide adequate indoor swimming facilities for their citizens all the year round, and thus encourage the art of swimming in the North.

SANDYCOVE S.C. will open their season to-morrow evening, at 6.30 o'clock, at Blackrock Baths. Events—50 Yards Handicap and Novices' 100 Yards.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL TEAM IN CAPETOWN.

A Capetown telegram, dated Friday, states:—The English football team had a splendid civic welcome on its arrival to-day. Colonel Merts, Minister of Defence, emphasised the tremendous good arising from the visits of British sportsmen. These young visitors, he said, would play the game—the big game—of sportsmanship, and he believed they would bring about a new era of Association football in South Africa.

ROWING.

FORTHCOMING NORTHERN REGATTAS.

Representatives of Northern rowing clubs, including Drogheda, Portadown, Carrickfergus, Belfast Commercial, City of Derry, and Bann (Coleraine), came together in Belfast on Friday evening, and discussed various matters calculated to popularise and promote the success of the forthcoming Drogheda, Portadown, Coleraine, and Derry regattas. Mr. John Shannon (Bann R.C.), presided. It was emphasised that, in consequence of the abnormal freights and fares, clubs experienced increasing difficulty in meeting the expense of sending boats and crews to regattas. In the hope of securing concessions under these heads, and so assist the movement to keep amateur rowing alive in the North, the Secretary was directed to communicate with the Managers of the Midland and the Great Northern Railways. The Drogheda, Portadown, Bann, and Derry representatives gave an assurance that every effort would be made at their regattas to facilitate visiting crews as far as possible in the matter of boats, and that where boats were carried the home clubs would be responsible for part payments of the freights. Portadown and Derry Clubs intimated that they had arranged their respective regattas for July 1st and 15th, and wished the other Northern clubs to support them in their applications to the Irish Amateur Rowing Union for approval of those dates. In the course of discussion it was stated that the Union had given these dates to Waterford and Carrick-on-Suir, but none of the Northern clubs could send crews to either of the Southern regattas owing to the impossible expense involved. Consequently, it was the unanimous feeling that the holding of the Portadown and Derry regattas on the dates mentioned would not interfere with the Southern fixtures, and the Secretary was directed to inform the Union Secretary that the other Northern clubs supported the Portadown and Derry applications. It was decided that the entrance fees for this year's regattas should in all cases be double what they were in 1914.

The Irish Times.

MONDAY, MAY 31, 1920.

There are alarming reports in Germany of another rising, which, it is said, has been planned for the 5th or 6th prox., with the object of overthrowing the Republic.

Italian troops are reported to be in occupation of Durazzo, and to have taken over the administration of the town because of the murder of Italians there.

D'Annunzio's soldiers at Fiume have attacked the Serbs, and the Serbian Government, fearing an attack on Susak, have protested to the Supreme Council, and issued orders to their army.

The Budapest Military Court has issued a warrant for the arrest of Count Karolyi, accusing him of inciting to the murder of Count Tisza, seducing the troops from their allegiance, and other grave offences.

A resolution has been introduced into the United States Senate urging an embargo on the export of coal.

Twenty lives were lost owing to floods at Louth (Lincolnshire) on Saturday. Owing, it is believed, to a cloudburst the river which runs through the town became flooded to an extraordinary degree, bridges and houses being carried away.

The Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, unveiled and dedicated a war memorial window in Howth Parish Church yesterday to fourteen members of the parish who gave their lives in the great war.

There was no change in the strike of Dublin dockers yesterday, but speeches which were made at a meeting of railwaymen in the Trades Hall in the evening indicated the possibility of a big development of the strike.

At Kilmallock yesterday Major-General Tudor conferred the Police Medal on the surviving defenders of the police barrack in that town which was attacked on Friday morning. He also promoted each of them.

When the transport Tsaritza, with men of the Cameron Highlanders on board, arrived at Queenstown on Saturday it was discovered that the floating fenders and the gangway for the disembarkation of horses were found to be missing. The major portion of the troops was disembarked on Sunday.

The disused police barracks at Louth, near Dundalk, as well as the Petty Sessions Court, were burned down by twenty armed men on Friday night.

The mail train from Bantry to Cork was held up at Durrus road Station, four miles from Bantry, on Saturday evening, by armed and disguised men. Five mail bags were seized and taken away in motor cars.

While going to his home, near Ballyglass, Co. Mayo, on Saturday night, a herd named Michael Toole was set upon by a number of men and battered to death. It is believed that the murder was the result of a local land dispute.

The Belfast dock strike was settled on Saturday.

Neutrality in War.

The Conference of the International Law Association, which is holding its sessions at Portsmouth, has discussed the vexed question of the laws of war at sea. The feature of the occasion was a speech by the American Ambassador, in which he declared that no ideal was dearer to the heart of the United States than the growth, enthronement, and supremacy of international law. We need not pause to consider the peculiar methods adopted by the Congress of the United States for exhibiting its attachment. We may ask, however, without incurring the charge of cynicism, whether at this moment importance can attach to any discussion of international law other than the importance of the persons participating in it. The abiding lesson of the great war is that, as between belligerents, the nation which observes any precept of international morality to its own disadvantage and to the enemy's advantage is a fool. Modern war is a game of catch as catch can—a struggle between nations, and not a glorified cock-fight between the armed champions of the nations. Hitting below the belt has ceased to be unpopular because belts are no longer worn. With regard to neutrals, the lesson of the great war is that a neutral's power to exact respect for its "rights" is measured precisely by its potential strength as a combatant and its readiness to accept that rôle.

The term "neutral" conveys a conception that international law never at any time recognised. It discriminated between combatants and non-combatants, and declared that non-combatants must refrain from assisting belligerents by combatant action. It never prescribed that a non-combatant should not assist its belligerent friends in the ordinary way of business. Neutrality in the sense of an actual equality of treatment of all belligerents never was demanded by international law. In 1914 and 1915 the United States (as a nation, of course, not as a Government) actively assisted the Allies, and Sweden actively assisted the Central Empires. Both acted thus in strict accordance with their "rights" as laid down by international law. Neither would have been permitted so to act—international law or no international law—if the Central Empires or the Allies, as the case may be, could have prevented it. The League of Nations is merely an extension of what has long been regarded as a fundamental principle of international right—namely, that the right of belligerents to wage war is subordinate to the right of neutrals to get on with their business. Until 1914 the interference with the neutrals' business was generally slight. In future the interference probably will be catastrophic—as it was in the great war—once the fighting begins; and the potential neutral's only hope of saving its business will be to prevent the war from starting. It is to be regretted that the ambitious schemes and resounding programmes of the League of Nations' champions have ignored this simple, but vital, principle.

The American Ambassador, in his speech at Portsmouth, quoted Lord Coke's famous dictum that it is more necessary that laws shall be certain than that they shall be just. Had the Peace Conference bent its energies to making certain the one fundamental principle of international law—that the belligerents must conduct their wars with a minimum of inconvenience to non-belligerents—and to defining the nature and extent of every permissible interference, there is no doubt that the League of Nations long since would have been a going concern. The trouble with the authors of the League was that they underrated the intelligence of the international jurists who had preceded them. It may be urged that, in the nature of things, there can be no neutrals in any future war. That is possible, particularly if it is an important war; but there may be non-belligerents, and it should be the business of the League of Nations to protect their rights. It may be argued that the assistance of non-belligerents always will be forthcoming for the belligerent who pays best, not for the belligerent who is in the right. That may be true, but it is equally true that fifty Leagues of Nations will not produce a standard of international morality higher than the composite standard of civic morality of the nations' citizens. At the present moment the resources of public idealism are exhausted and the world's citizenship is at a strikingly low ebb. Whole nations are allowing their honour to be sold for votes, without caring much in one way or another so long as the result does not affect their pockets. That state of things will not continue. In time loftier conceptions will reassert themselves—ideals founded soundly upon the experience and accomplishment of the past. The idealists will come down and the money-grubbers and place-hunters will emerge from the trough. Then the real business of finding an agreeable alternative to war will be taken sanely in hand.

A Stricken Town.

Two Louths figure in to-day's news. In the Irish village a band of raiders has destroyed the police barrack, and the little town in Lincolnshire has been devastated by floods. The sudden deluges at Louth, Lancaster, and elsewhere in England were quite out of the ordinary course of things. The meteorological forecasts, which merely predicted unsettled weather and local thunderstorms, gave no warning of them. Heavy rain fell in many parts of England and Ireland on Saturday afternoon. In the Dublin district it began with a gentle drizzle which thickened gradually into a steady downpour, but presented no unusual feature save that it was followed by a sharp fall of temperature. In Louth (Lincs.) the rain was accompanied by a thunderstorm which drove everybody into shelter. Then something terrible and mysterious happened to the little river Lud (described as "a tiny stream") that flows through the town. It was converted suddenly into a raging torrent, two hundred yards in width. The water rose to the upper storeys of the adjacent dwellings, and many persons were trapped in them. Houses were thrown down and bridges broken. The calamity was as irresistible as it was unexpected. Twenty bodies, including those of several children, have been recovered from the wreckage—innocent people snatched rudely from life in the peace of an English afternoon. At the same time, on the other side of Britain, a tremendous invasion from the skies flooded and destroyed a considerable stretch of the railway between Preston and Lancaster. It is clear that, in the case of Louth at least, the mischief could not have been caused by any eruption of pent-up waters from lake or river: the town lies in the central flatness of the fen country. Local opinion, therefore, attributes the misfortune to a waterspout. This phenomenon—a huge cone of water-laden cloud that bursts with appalling force—is not infrequent in tropic seas; but its occurrence over land is unusual, and exceptionally unusual in our temperate climate. The bomb-like effect of the floods discharged by tornado and waterspout is due to a double process of rapid expansion and great rarefaction in the air. If science endorses the local opinion of Louth, this waterspout will be one of the exceptions that prove the rule of our islands' comfortable immunity from Nature's fiercer outbursts. Europe is the most solid continent on the face of the globe. It has only four areas of volcanic activity, all of which lie around the Mediterranean, and even there earthquakes and eruptions on the grand scale are infrequent. No capital city has been scourged by such disaster since the earthquake at Lisbon in 1755. Slight tremblings happen often enough, even in England, but not one person in a million notices them. Our sense of security is buttressed rather than impaired when the seismographs at Dublin and Limerick tell us of terrific earthquakes in Java or the Caribbean Sea. In respect of solid ground and equable skies Ireland is even more highly favoured than the sister country. The oldest inhabitant remembers neither an appreciable earthquake nor a whole-hearted waterspout, and the "great wind" of eighty years ago was so strange a visitation that it has dated the birth of an army of old-age pensioners. The coast-line from Portmarnock to Malahide is said to enjoy consistently the finest weather in the United Kingdom. Felices sua si bona norint! Perhaps, it is because Nature abhors a vacuum that she allows men's passions and follies to do the work of earthquake and cyclone in our distracted isle.

For Valour.

The Irish Government has been swift to recognise the gallantry with which the little garrison defended the police barracks at Kilmallock. Yesterday the unwounded survivors were paraded before Major-General H. H. Tudor, C.B., who presented every man with the Constabulary Medal. He announced that Sergeant Sullivan had been promoted to the rank of Head Constable, while Constables O'Sullivan, Bailey, Holmes, and Hall had been made sergeants. Furthermore, the Government has decided to make grants of £50, to the newly-appointed Head Constable and £25 apiece to the new sergeants. Every law-abiding citizen will rejoice at the promptitude with which the Government has made these awards. The recipients are deserving of all honour. A few minutes after the attack opened, when it became apparent that the raiders were thoroughly equipped for their grim task, Sergeant Sullivan and his comrades must have known that their position was untenable and that their lives were at stake. Yet for five hours they "carried on," and refused every demand for their surrender. Even when the flames forced them to evacuate the barracks they would not admit defeat. They dashed into the street, and, with bayonets and rifle butts, fought their way to a place of safety. The speed with which the Government has recognised the heroism of these men is tangible proof to the members of the Royal Irish Constabulary that the Executive appreciates their devoted services. Further proof lies in the fact that steps have been taken to ensure that men who are awarded compensation for criminal injuries shall receive the money through the Government without unnecessary delay.

Railway Fares.

Holiday-makers will welcome the Ministry of Transport's Order which restores the pre-war conditions concerning "free" luggage, and will hope that it is but the precursor of further concessions. The current number of Modern Transport contains a proposal which everybody would like to see adopted. It is suggested that the railway companies shall restore the pre-war scale of fares on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays—days upon which very few trains carry their full complements of passengers. Three objects, it is claimed, could be attained by this scheme. In the first place, it would give relief to the poorer classes, for many of whom a holiday at the seaside is made impossible by the present high rates. In the second place, it would distribute the holiday traffic more evenly over all the days of the week. Finally, it would create more revenue. These three points, it is said, have impressed the controllers of several English railways, and they have given their support to the scheme. Cheaper facilities of the kind suggested would encourage travelling, and probably would not increase a company's running expenses. In view of the railway workers' demand for a further £1 per week, the companies should explore every possible source of revenue.

IRISH LAND PURCHASE.

SUGGESTED SCHEME.

The following is the outline of a scheme for winding up land purchase in Ireland which has been adopted by the Land Purchase Committee of the Irish Farmers' Union:—

(1) There should be an appointed day, and that day to be fixed so as to be the earliest possible one after the passing of the bill, and upon that day all the present tenants of the unpurchased agricultural holdings shall automatically become there and then the proprietors of their holdings.

(2) From that day (above mentioned) the land purchase annuities should be payable, and each tenant up to that day shall not have to pay more than one year's rent whatever his arrears may have been.

(3) In estimating the price to be paid we consider that, to produce a scheme with a reasonable probability of its being acceptable generally to the unpurchased tenants, the price should be such that non-judicial tenants, and tenants holding at rents fixed before 1st August, 1896, should receive by purchase a reduction of 35 per cent. on their rent, and that tenants whose rents have been fixed since that date should receive an abatement of 25 per cent., and the annuity represented by the reduction should not run for a longer period than 70 years. The total price should be made up of the sum which these annuities represent and the bonus to be provided by the State, which we refer to later.

(4) The money should be advanced to each tenant, and, as suggested by the Convention, through Land Bonds or Land Stock at £100 at 5 per cent. per annum.

(5) The bonus should be so calculated that the landlord should receive his present net income, and the purchasing tenant should receive the abatement already specified.

(6) Government Stock or Bonds, in which the vendor is paid, must be accepted at face value for payment of all public and private charges on the estate.

(7) In the case of pending purchase agreement, the holding should be vested and purchase money distributed within twelve months of passing of the Act.

(8) In order to expedite purchase transaction and to reduce cost, the investigation of title and the distribution of purchase money should be undertaken by the Treasury.

(9) The settlement of the land purchase question must not be made subsidiary to any consideration, political or other.

(10) With regard to the allotment of untenanted land in the possession of the Estates Commissioners or the Congested Districts Board, we recommend that persons to whom it is proposed to allot land be given the option of erecting the fences according to specification, where "staked" or "spit-spitted," by their own labour, with a corresponding reduction in annuity payable, and with a further option of themselves erecting the necessary buildings under loan from the Board of Works or otherwise and be given the immediate occupancy of their allotments pending completion of the works and their proper execution.

IRISH TREASURY APPOINTMENT.

Mr. A. P. Waterfield has been appointed for service in Ireland under the Right Hon. Sir John Anderson, K.C.B., with the status of Assistant Secretary in the Treasury, and with headquarters in the Treasury Remembrancer's Office, Dublin Castle.

H.M.S. TEMERAIRE.

The battle cruiser Temeraire, training ship for naval cadets, will visit the Irish coast on a cruise next month. The Temeraire will call at Dunmore on the 3rd June, remaining till the 7th, arriving at Galway same day, and leaving on the 11th for Killary. From Killary she will proceed to Buncrana, Lough Swilly, on the 16th, arriving the following day. The battle cruiser will remain in Lough Swilly till the 22nd, when she will leave for Campbelltown en voyage to the Norwegian coast and the Mediterranean. His Royal Highness Prince George, who recently passed out from Dartmouth College, is to have a cruise in the Temeraire before qualifying as a midshipman.

Applicants in the possession of papers relating to their case should produce them. The headquarters of the "Officers' Friend" Branch, Ireland, South Region, are 41 Upper Fitzwilliam street, Dublin, to which all correspondence should be addressed.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

Floods in this country, and particularly in the Fen district, are common enough, but they are rarely attended by much loss of life, as they usually arise gradually and give warning of their coming. It is very many years since an English inundation has been accompanied by such a heavy death-roll as that at Louth, in Lincolnshire, where, according to the early reports, twenty deaths have already been notified. Full details of the catastrophe are at present lacking, but it seems extraordinary that the mere rising of a little river like the Lud should have produced such havoc in so short a time.

Mr. Lloyd George was at Downing street all Saturday forenoon, and left later for Chobham to spend the week-end. No further arrangements had then been made for his seeing M. Krassin. The Prime Minister still hopes to go to North Wales on Monday for the enthronement of the Archbishop of Wales at St. Asaph. There will be a Cabinet meeting to-morrow morning.

One of the Prime Minister's most marked characteristics in his preference for "heart to heart talk" over negotiations in writing. No one doubts that, as M. Krassin is here, Mr. Lloyd George will want to see him before he returns to Russia. The Government Press-agents are already briskly at work in preparing for that event by suggesting that M. Krassin is an entirely harmless person, and that any conversations that members of the Government may hold with him will be strictly confined to commercial questions.

Nevertheless, there is an uneasy feeling that, if Mr. Lloyd George receives him, he will find the temptation to talk politics irresistible, and may commit the country to closer relations with the Soviet Government than any but the small section of extremists deems desirable. It is hoped, therefore, that the interview will be delayed as long as possible, and that in the meantime the representations of the Allies specially charged with the duty of investigating M. Krassin's economic proposals will have completed their work. It would be particularly interesting to know the origin of the stocks of gold said to be at his command, and what legal right the Soviet Government has to their possession.

On Tuesday the House of Commons meets again for what is hoped to be the final instalment of the session. The business on Tuesday will be the further consideration of the Navy Estimates. Wednesday and Thursday, as at present arranged, are to be devoted to getting on with the Committee stage of the Government of Ireland Bill. Some difference of opinion is said to have developed among the members of the Government regarding the amendment of this measure, and the Prime Minister is reported to be more inclined than some of his colleagues to generous concessions in regard to finance. It is possible, therefore, that the consideration of the Bill will be more lively and prolonged than the practical disappearance of all the Opposition parties led us to suppose that it would be.

The most important of the other pending measures is the Finance Bill. According to the Sunday Express, its progress is to be eased by the abandonment of the proposal to tax war fortunes. This is said to be the decision of the Finance Committee of the Cabinet, arrived at in deference to the strong hostility of the majority of the Coalitionists in the House of Commons, and reluctantly acquiesced in by the Government as a whole.

Inasmuch as Lord Beaverbrook, the owner of the Daily Express, is in close touch with Mr. Bonar Law, it is probable that his information is correct—the more so that he himself through his newspaper has been one of the strongest supporters of the capital levy. Mr. Chamberlain will now presumably fall back upon his proposal to increase the excess profits duty, which City opinion regards as only less objectionable than the capital levy.

I observe that Lord Leverhulme, as the result of a visit to Belgium, where industry is recovering by leaps and bounds, thinks that the Chancellor of the Exchequer is too much obsessed by the nominal figures of the National Debt, and that, instead of increasing the burden of taxation in order to make heroic efforts to pay it off, he should content himself with paying the interest and leave more money in the taxpayers' pockets to provide capital for industrial expansion. I suppose that Mr. Chamberlain's reply would be that, while the funded debt might be left to take care of itself for a time, the existence of an immense floating debt constitutes an even greater menace to industry than does heavy taxation.

As we mentioned in this column on Tuesday last, the political clubs quickly interpreted the transference of Sir John Anderson from the Inland Revenue Department to Dublin as an indication that the levy on war wealth had been dropped, and there can be no doubt that the unpopularity of the tax has increased, since it has been realised that the effect on our commerce could not be otherwise than adverse. At such a time as this our industries require conditions of stability more than anything else. Uncertain taxation proposals have injured many industries, and the sooner the actual decision of the Government is announced the better it will be, if our industrial system is to reconstruct itself upon sound lines.

To-day was Hospital Sunday in London, and, judging by the collections at a church with which I am associated, I should say that there will be an unusually good response to the appeal. If so, it will probably be due in some measure to the cry of distress uttered by Lord Knutsford on behalf of the London Hospital, for everybody knows the London and its work, thanks to the exertions of its Chairman, "the sturdiest beggar on record," as he has been described.

But neither the Hospital Sunday collections nor the still larger amounts raised by the King Edward's Hospital Fund will serve to meet the growing deficits of the hospitals. One of two things must happen. Either the people who mainly benefit by the work of the hospitals must contribute much more freely to their upkeep than they do at present, or the State must come to their rescue with a large subsidy. The total expenditure of the voluntary hospitals throughout Great Britain is less than six millions a year. "If the Government would pay a third of this sum, two millions a year," said Mr. E. W. Morris, of the London Hospital, to an interviewer, "we could all go on. Our troubles would be over."

The drawback to this proposal is, of course, that with a State subsidy must come State control, and to this idea most of the hospital authorities are strenuously opposed, as they believe it would hamper their usefulness in many ways, but particularly as regards medical education. At present, however, there seems little hope of their being able to stave off the evil day much longer, and, perhaps, when it comes, it will not be so bad as it looks in advance.

HOWTH WAR MEMORIAL.

SERMON BY THE PROVOST OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

A stained glass window, designed by Miss Purser, was unveiled and dedicated in Howth Parish Church yesterday morning by the Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, in memory of the men from the parish who gave their lives in the great war. The names of the fourteen men whose sacrifice, victory, and duty are appropriately commemorated are inscribed on a brass mural tablet close to the window, which is situated in the nave, and consists of three principal figures, richly coloured, representing St. Kilian, the only Irish saint who suffered martyrdom (sacrifice); St. Michael (victory), and St. George (duty).

A large assemblage of worshippers joined in morning prayer, after which the Provost of Trinity College preached.

PROVOST OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

The Provost of Trinity College chose as his text the words from St. Luke's Gospel, "I am not worthy," and in the course of his address he said that that was the note that was specially struck by the Service and by the first lesson for Trinity Sunday. It recorded the vision which the prophet had, and suggested to those in grief the majesty of God and the goodness of God and the holiness of God, and reminded us of our own shortcomings and imperfections. They felt that they could say with truth the words of the prophet, "I am not worthy to be called Thy son." Certainly, that was the one note struck by the Service of Trinity Sunday when they approached the majesty and holiness of the eternal God. There was another Bible saying of which he thought they might be well reminded on a day like that, when they recalled in thankfulness what God had done for them in the great and terrible days of the war—"I am not worthy of the least of all Thy mercies." So said Jacob, and he thought that the words found an echo in their hearts when they looked back to the victory which had not yet ceased to astonish them by its completeness. The victory and achievement which were in all their hearts were gifts of God, who inspired the courage and devotion, the unselfishness and self-sacrifice of the soldiers and sailors who went forth to battle when the call to arms came. They did not all come back to them. The great achievement of the war, the victory of freedom, was purchased at a great price. It was won by the death of men, some of whose names they honoured that day, and by many thousands like them. They thanked God for them with full hearts, and because they had a duty to their memory. Parochial memorials such as had been placed in that church were specially fitting, because they kept alive the memory of their brave dead among their own friends and neighbours. He was glad that their names were simply placed in alphabetical order, without distinction of class or rank. A man could give no more than his life. All these men fought in the same cause of righteousness and truth, and they knew it, whatever social or ecclesiastical differences might have distinguished them in days of peace. It was altogether fitting and proper that they should dedicate and hallow a lasting memorial to those who died that we might live, but it was for the living rather to dedicate themselves afresh to the work which they who fought and died so nobly achieved. "It is rather for us here," continued the Provost, "solemnly to dedicate ourselves to the great tasks which lie before us as a nation, that from these honoured dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain. Let us try to live henceforth in the same spirit of devotion and sacrifice which inspired our legions, in the same spirit of comradeship that bound them together. The war ought to have taught us the true proportions of things—to have taught us the value of unity, the grandeur of lofty ideals. Perhaps we in Ireland have been too little attentive to these things: perhaps we have occupied ourselves too much with petty issues and deceived ourselves with impossible dreams. If it be so, let us in God's name, and even in this dark hour of dissension and strife, dedicate ourselves afresh to the common purpose for which these men died." In the concluding portion of his sermon the Provost alluded to what the Bible and the Church had to say to the calling of a soldier as associated with the Christian faith; and said that dying on the battlefield did not alone atone for sin. There was a saying which was ascribed to our Lord—"In what things soever I find you, in these things will I judge you." He found these men in the noblest art of manhood, laying down their lives that others might live. That, at any rate, was a large part of the great tradition of the Cross, and they might be satisfied that as He found them so He judged them.

After the sermon the Provost and the Rector, the Rev. John Powell, proceeded to the war memorial window, and after the dedication prayers and responses and the reading of Scripture, the Provost dedicated the window which he had unveiled.

The Service was concluded with the Blessing, pronounced by the Provost from the chancel.

FINLAND'S PAPER POSSIBILITIES.

NEWSPAPER REPRESENTATIVES' TOUR OF OBSERVATION.

At the invitation of the Amalgamated Finnish Paper Industry, Mr. H. Reeve Angel, of Messrs. H. Reeve Angel and Co., is taking a party of newspaper directors and managers through Finland for the purpose of giving the visitors some idea of the resources of that country in connection with the supply of newsprinting paper.

The Arcturus will arrive at Helsingfors on the 6th June, and during the following ten days the visitors will make an extensive tour of the country by steamer, rail, and motor car, including some of the principal lake and forest districts, and will inspect various paper mills en route. Among the more important places to be visited are:—Helsingfors, Kotka, Kouvola, Biborg, Imatra, Kajana, Uleaborg, and Tammerfors, and the total journey will cover practically a thousand miles.

On the return journey, commencing on the 16th June, calls will be made at Stockholm, Christiania, and Bergen.

The following newspapers are represented:—Belfast Telegraph, The Observer, Liverpool Courier, Liverpool Evening Express, Yorkshire Evening News, Daily News, The Star, Bradford Telegraph, Yorkshire Observer, News of the World, Birmingham Post, Birmingham Daily Mail, Hull Daily Mail, Hull Times, Western Morning News, Liverpool Post and Mercury, Liverpool Echo, Daily Sketch, Evening Standard, Daily Dispatch, Illustrated Sunday Herald, Manchester Chronicle, Glasgow Evening News, The Paper-Maker, The Daily Mail, Evening News, Manchester Guardian, Manchester Evening News, Irish Times, Yorkshire Post.

Many of the representatives will be accompanied by their wives.

IRISH TOBACCO TRADE CRISIS.

At last week's meeting of the Irish Industrial Development Association (Incorporated), held at 102-3 Grafton street, Dublin, the Dowager Countess of Desart in the chair, a deputation attended on behalf of the Irish Women Workers' Union and placed before the Council information as to the critical situation in which the Irish tobacco-manufacturing industry is now placed.

The deputation, which consisted of Miss Louie Bennett, Miss H. Moloney, and Miss Shanahan, pointed out that for some time past the public demand in this country for Irish-manufactured tobacco and cigarettes had fallen off to an abnormal extent; that in consequence the Irish manufacturers had been compelled considerably to reduce the number of their workpeople, and that unless the situation rapidly improved there was grave danger that a number of the Irish factories might have to close down altogether, as it is almost impossible for them to conduct their industries profitably under existing conditions.

The remedy for this serious crisis lies with the general public. If smokers in Ireland will insist upon being supplied with Irish tobacco and cigarettes, which are sold at equal prices with those imported into this country, they will save the Irish factories from having to close down, and they will prevent hundreds of Irish workpeople from being thrown out of employment, and probably being forced to emigrate.

The present position of this industry is so critical that the Council feel impelled to make public these facts, and to appeal to Irish smokers to recognise the responsibility which rests upon them to save the industry from extinction.

SIR NEVIL MACREADY AND THE CHIEF SECRETARY LEAVE FOR LONDON.

ARMY NURSES' BONUS.

The Army Council has decided that, pending the issue of general instructions regarding the cessation of the Army of Occupation bonus, and the settlement of the new rates of pay at present under consideration, the Army of Occupation bonus will be issued to members of Q.A.I.M.N.S. (regulars). This bonus will not, however, be issuable for periods after 30th April, 1920, to temporary nurses (Q.A.I.M.N.S. Reserve, T.F.N.S., V.A.D. nursing members, and special military probationers) unless they are in hospital or on sick leave, and are not in a position to sign the form of agreement to serve at home or abroad for a period not exceeding either one or two years.

TROOPS LANDED AT QUEENSTOWN.

DOCKERS' OBSTRUCTIVE TACTICS.

Our Queenstown Correspondent, writing on Saturday, states:—The transport Czaritza, 6,600 tons, in command of Captain Marshall, came alongside the Deep Water Quay this morning from Southampton, for the purpose of disembarking the 2nd Battalion of the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders, also a number of horses, Lewis guns, ammunition, and military equipment. As the vessel approached the quay, in charge of a licensed pilot of Queenstown, it was discovered that the large floating fenders usually employed at the quay to keep deep draught ships out from the sea wall, was gone, having apparently been cut away from its moorings to the quay during the previous night. It was also found that the dock labourers, generally in readiness to assist in mooring vessels at the quay, were absent, and there was nobody about to do this necessary work. A number of bluejackets were soon available, and the big liner was securely berthed at the quay.

The work of placing gangways in position to enable the troops and horses to disembark was next to be done, but, to the surprise of those in charge, it was discovered that the loose gangways placed on the quay the day before, were gone, and it is presumed that they were thrown into the sea during the early hours of the morning. At all events, no civilians could be got, at any rate of pay, to work on the quay, and the military were obliged by the force of circumstances to do all kinds of work. After some delay a number of the troops disembarked, but no information could be got, either at the quay or at the military headquarters, as to where the troops are to be located.

With regard to the removal of the Lewis guns, which the military are now getting out of the transport, it appears that the railway men at Queenstown have definitely determined not to handle any kind of war material.

Telegraphing later, our Correspondent states: Owing to the attitude assumed by Labour here it appears that the military arrangements for the distribution of the troops on the transport Czaritza were completely upset, and the larger part of the battalion was kept on board on Saturday and Saturday night, pending a decision from headquarters. Yesterday morning, however, there was much animation on the transport, and before noon all officers and men had passed down the gangway, with baggage and other equipment. The battalion then marched to hutments at Carrignafoy.

Meanwhile the Admiralty trawler came alongside the transport, and had transhipped to her several heavy guns and other material. A number of troops also went aboard, and she later steamed to Cork.

TERRIBLE SEQUEL TO LAND AGITATION.

MAYO HERD BATTERED TO DEATH.

Our Claremorris Correspondent telegraphs:—A shocking murder, arising out of agrarian trouble, was committed on Saturday night at Clogherlynch, Ballyglass, Co. Mayo, when Michael Toole, a herd in the employment of Mr. J. Fitzgerald Kenny, J.P., Ballyglass House, was brutally done to death on his way home. Toole had been previously warned not to work outside Mr. Kenny's demesne lands, but he ignored the notice, and on Saturday was engaged for his employer sowing hay seeds in a field across the road outside the demesne.

When on his return home at 11 o'clock p.m., accompanied by two men, he was approached by masked men. One of his companions, against whom there had been no grudge, was ordered away, and the other received a bad beating, while Toole was knocked down and battered to death. His skull was opened as the result of the violence of the blows, and owing to the nature of his injuries he was almost unrecognisable.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning his wife, becoming alarmed at his failure to return, went in search of him, and was horrified to find his body on the road in the manner described.

Toole, who was only 43 years of age, leaves a helpless family of thirteen children. He was known in the district as a hard-working, industrious man.

The murder was denounced in Carnacon Parish Church yesterday morning. Police and military have been poured into the district, and are making exhaustive searches into the crime, but so far have found no clue beyond some parts of farm implements convenient to the scene, within three hundred yards of the house of the murdered man.

FARMS CLEARED BY MILITARY.

NEW PHASE OF ROSCOMMON LAND AGITATION.

The Congested Districts Board are now clearing off cattle from certain farms in County Roscommon where they had been placed without the Board's authority. On Saturday over one hundred soldiers arrived at Kilmurry, near Castleplunkett, and drove the grazing stock off the Board's farm at Drishabawn. The soldiers are now encamped on the farms, and are proceeding to clear all the farms of the Board. The people are bringing away their stock off the farms by night. A stockmaster of the Board named Flanagan, residing at Flaskagh, near Tulsk, had his house raided by masked men, who seized on all the books and papers and branding irons in his possession.

AMERICAN DECORATION DAY.

MEMORIAL SERVICE IN IRELAND.

American Decoration Day was celebrated in London on Saturday. The graves of Americans were decorated, and yesterday a Service to the memory of the Americans who fell in the war was held at St. Margaret's, Westminster. The American Ambassador attended, and the Prime Minister was represented.

At Queenstown the graves of Americans and the British victims of the Lusitania were decorated.

Mr. William Patton Kent, the newly-appointed Consul representing the United States in Belfast, accompanied by the Vice-Consul, on Saturday placed a laurel wreath in front of the City Hall, Belfast, to commemorate the American Decoration Day. The Lord Mayor was represented at the ceremony by Sir Frederick Moneypenny. On Sunday the graves of American sailors and soldiers in Belfast were decorated in the American part of the City Cemetery.

OBITUARY.

LIEUTENANT T. FROOD PERRIN.

A telegram from Egypt announces the death suddenly, on the 23rd inst., of Lieutenant T. F. Perrin, 3rd Royal Irish Regiment, second son of Mr. R. Perrin, Mervyn, Blackrock. Educated at Avoca School, Blackrock, the late Lieutenant Perrin was recognised early as one of the finest hockey players that this country ever produced. He was picked on the Irish XI. for the first time in 1910, and in all represented the country on thirteen occasions. Destined for the profession of chartered accountant, he had a fancy for soldiering, and was in a Territorial battalion of the Black Watch when the war broke out. Joining up at once, he was on home defence at the Forth Bridge till he received his commission in the Royal Irish Regiment in April, 1915, and went to France in the following November. Badly wounded in the fighting at Mametz Wood in the July of 1916, he was in hospital for a couple of months, and when passed again for active service was sent to Salonika in June, 1917, and thence with his regiment to Palestine in the September of that year, going through the whole of the campaign in the Holy Land, and volunteering for the Army of Occupation when hostilities ceased. Recently he had trouble with his heel, owing to some small splinters of shrapnel remaining from the wounds received in France, and was operated on at Cairo. From there he went to Alexandria as convalescent to await a transport for England when the end came suddenly.

SOLDIER DROWNED IN THE SHANNON.

Private McCaffrey, 2nd Highland Light Infantry, while bathing in the Shannon, near Limerick, on Saturday, was accidentally drowned. Efforts at rescue failed, and the body was not recovered. He was quite a young soldier, and is stated to have been a native of Glasgow.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A depression, centred over the Shetlands, is moving away northward, and a westerly type of distribution has become established over the British Isles. During the next day or two changeable conditions, with local thunderstorms are probable in all districts.

Ireland.—Wind westerly, moderate or fresh; varying from fair to overcast; some showers, risk of thunder; visibility good; moderate temperature.

FROM "THE TIMES" OF TO-DAY.

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH THE PROPRIETORS OF THE TIMES.)

THE LAW OF NATIONS.

The Times, in a leading article to-day, says: The Portsmouth Conference on International Law, which ends to-day, may be regarded as the beginning of a world-wide reconsideration of the law of nations necessitated by the late war and the Treaty of Versailles. Is it possible to reconcile the idealism of international law with the hard facts of war, and the complex economic interests of competing nations with differing ideals? The note of the Conference seems to have been most hopeful on the great theme. Lord Reading, whose vast experience of criminal law is likely to shelter him from vain illusions, sees clearly that crime in international affairs is more capable, perhaps, of prevention than of cure. He proclaimed the necessity of making the League of Nations, created by the Treaty of Versailles, an effective organisation. He believes that the Covenant of the League contains the basis of essential principles. He declared that whether the League became an effective organisation depended not on jurists or diplomatists, but on the opinion of the majority of mankind, and he insisted that, whether America signed, or did not sign, the Treaty she would still remain the champion of liberty and justice, on whom the supporters of the League might rely. The scheme for an International Court of Justice must not be forced too rapidly. No doubt, he was thinking of the slow but wonderful evolution of our own courts of justice. They were not framed in a day or in a year. They are largely the product of Anglo-Norman genius, which slowly evolved, in place of a multitude of local jurisdictions, a central jurisdiction satisfactory to all. Slowly the founders of an international judicature must feel their way towards that effective consent of free, educated peoples which is the true sanction of all law. But meantime the League has much to do in surveying the ground of its operations, and in ascertaining those potential causes of war which can be dissipated by early action. We must beware of beginnings, for often remedies come too late. The League of Nations is at present a physician to the body international. The task which it must perform without delay is the application of the principles of prevention to a restless world.

A CLOUDBURST IN LINCOLNSHIRE.

Commenting in an editorial article upon the disaster which has overtaken the little town of Louth, in Lincolnshire, The Times says:—This fatal storm was at first described as a "cloud burst," or "waterspout," which took place in the hills some four or five miles to the west. Louth lies on the eastern edge of the Lincolnshire Wolds, a range of hills, eight miles in width, running north and south, and separated from the coast by an almost level area of drained marshland. The little streams which leave the hills almost contrive to "meander level with their founts," and are unable to carry any sudden influx of water swiftly to the sea. In the absence of detailed evidence from eyewitnesses, we doubt if the word "waterspout" can be applied correctly to the cause of this disaster. A waterspout is the result of a conical vortex of air descending from a cloud until its point meets the sea or a lake, when it appears to catch up the water in a wild whirl. It might accompany a storm, but is unlikely in itself to be the cause of floods. The phrases "cloud burst" or thunderstorm are probably more correct. Within the last few days there have been local and severe falls of rain in many parts of the country, and one of these downfalls seems to have visited the Lincolnshire Wolds. An inch of rain over a square mile of country provides water sufficient to cover an area two hundred yards each way to a depth of six feet. Such a bulk forcing its way through the narrow bed of a lowland stream is more than enough to wreak havoc. England is not accustomed to tropical rains, but from time to time torrents of great severity fall. In November, 1897, 6.70 inches are reported to have fallen in three hours at Angerton, in Northumberland. In July, 1901, 3.63 inches fell in one hour at Maidenhead, and falls of about an inch in the hour have frequently been recorded. In the summer of 1917 there was a devastating flood at Chesham, in Buckinghamshire, and a sudden storm filled the tunnel at the London Zoological Gardens. But, if the calamity at Louth is no unique meteorological incident, it should awaken helpful pity in the British public.

THE IRISH PROTEST IN ROME.

A Times telegram from Rome on Friday says: The anonymous letter sent to Monsignor Stanley was not the only protest made by the Irish against the report that he would officiate at the beatification of Oliver Plunket. I was unable to inform you before, being pledged to secrecy, of what is now more or less public property, namely, that a formal protest had been addressed to Cardinal Merry del Val by Cardinal Logue, and that the former had also received an anonymous and impertinent letter. In replying to Cardinal Logue, Cardinal Merry del Val pointed out that he had nothing to do with the selection of the officiating Canon, that the office was performed in turn, but that, in fact, Monsignor Stanley's turn did not fall on Sunday last. Cardinal Logue's protest, therefore, fell to the ground, but he (Cardinal Merry del Val) would be glad to know whether Cardinal Logue approved of the anonymous letter, which he enclosed. Cardinal Logue did not stand upon the order of his going, but went in person to express his regrets and make his apologies. The Irish suggestion that the letters were the work of a Sassenach agent provocateur finds no credence anywhere. The Vatican knows who wrote the letters, or, at least, has a very shrewd suspicion, and it is exceedingly displeased.

THE WAR WEALTH DECISION.

The Times to-day states:—Contradictory reports have been in circulation in the past few days as to the Government's policy in regard to the report of the Committee appointed to inquire into the question of the taxation of war-time increases of wealth. It is, however, rather doubtful whether the Government, as a whole, has yet come to a decision on the report, but it may be expected to do so very shortly. An early announcement is desired, in view of the uncertainty felt in business circles. Whatever decision may be come to, it is important to note that Scale C 2 is not designed merely to tax the war "profiteers," but to levy a special impost upon all increases of wealth in the five years from June 30, 1914, to June 30, 1919. Wealth acquired by enterprise or thrift would be subject to assessment, as well as wealth acquired by selling goods at scarcity prices. But if the Committee's scheme is rejected, the problem of the Floating Debt will still remain, and the funds to deal with it will obviously have to be provided by other means.

LABOUR AND HIGH PRICES.

The Labour Party, says The Times to-day, are said to be considering the demand now being made by trade union organisations throughout the country for the holding of a National Conference to consider a new policy for forcing down the cost of living. It is generally agreed in Labour circles that the plan of raising wages to keep pace with soaring prices has almost worked itself out, and that the time has come for tackling the problem by some other method. The suggestion of Sir Henry Morris in The Times of Friday, that the best method of bringing down prices is a widespread movement to refuse to pay them, is held to be inapplicable to the wage-earning classes. They are said to buy only bare necessities. What is now contemplated is more extended and more drastic Government control of wholesale profits and retail prices in the case of most commodities. It is asserted that the mass of the people are at the mercy of a small, but powerful, group of "Trusts," and that they can only be set free by Government action. One Labour suggestion is that the businesses of firms proved to be guilty of "profiteering" should be taken over by the State and worked for the benefit of the community.

DEATH OF DR. G. E. MORRISON.

The Times to-day announces with regret the death at Sidmouth, Devon, of Dr. George E. Morrison, Political Adviser to the President of the Chinese Republic, and some time Correspondent of The Times in the Far East, at the age of 58 years. Dr. Morrison's death, it states, is the end of an illness which was slow but inevitable in its end, but which descended upon him without warning. As a medical man he had known his fate for months, and quietly warned his friends of what must be expected. But even in the months which daily sapped his physical strength, his enthusiasm for China was undiminished, and even grew.

THE IRISH RAILWAY CLERKS.

APPEAL TRIBUNAL SET UP.

A conference between the Ministry of Transport, the managers of the Irish railway companies, and the Railway Clerks' Association, which was opened in Dublin last Thursday, concluded on Saturday. A special delegate meeting of the railway clerks will be held in Dublin at 3 o'clock to-day, and the provisional settlement arrived at by the conference of the points in dispute will be submitted. It is stated that special machinery has been set up for the hearing of appeals, and that arrears are to be paid as quickly as possible, but in no case later than June 15th. Under this agreement any clerk or stationmaster not satisfied with his classification can appeal to this tribunal, and take with him as advocate the Irish Secretary of the Railway Clerks' Association. Where the appeal tribunal cannot decide satisfactorily, the group of appellants will have the right of further appeal to the Director-General of Transport.

ITALIANS IN DURAZZO.

THE TOWN OCCUPIED.

D'ANNUNZIO'S THREAT TO THE SERBS.

The Paris Journal says:—According to information from a Slav source, Italian troops have already occupied Durazzo, and taken over the administration of the town. The message adds that this action was taken by the Rome Government as the result of the murder of several Italians in Durazzo.

D'ANNUNZIO AND THE SERBS.

A Times telegram from Paris on Friday says: News has been received here that D'Annunzio's troops at Fiume have attacked the Serbs.

The Petit Parisien says:—D'Annunzio, at the head of his army, took the Jugo-Slav village of Kavelay, at the same time declaring his intention of taking Susak, which is only separated from Fiume by a narrow river. The Jugo-Slav Government intimated to the Italian Government and to the Allied Powers that it will resist by force this act of violence against its nationals.

A message from Belgrade on Friday says:—The Serbian Prime Minister informed Parliament that when the Government had heard that D'Annunzio intended to occupy Susak the Serbian Government immediately protested to Italy, and took steps to lay the matter before the Supreme Council and the Council of Ambassadors simultaneously. Orders appropriate to the situation were given to the army.

PREMIER'S SUGGESTION.

M. Vesnitch, Premier, speaking in the Skupstina, said: With reference to the Western frontiers and our relations with the Italians, I must say that neither the Government nor Parliament can, or should, consider Italy as an enemy country. A state of friendly and normal neighbourly relations should exist between us. The best solution of our difficulty would be for the Adriatic Sea to become the frontier of our young State and Italy. Probably we shall not arrive at such solution to-day, and even our best friends cannot help us to attain it at this moment. Therefore, let us try to settle our relations and our difference with Italy in such a way as to leave as few scars as possible on our national body, and to make life possible for those of our brothers on Italian territory, as well as for nations on our own territory.

GERMANY AND FRANCE.

PLANS FOR ECONOMIC CO-OPERATION.

A telegram from Berlin says:—Describing the impressions brought back by the German economic delegates sent to Paris, the Vossische Zeitung says:—Both their reception and the whole course of the negotiations were not only polite, but revealed a wish that something tangible should result for the economic co-operation of the two peoples, and it was speedily established that the two countries were commercially inter-dependent on each other. After the formal opening of the sitting, three sub-committees were appointed for the chemical, textile, and metal industries respectively. The delegates were unanimous that there must be a comprehensive agreement for co-operation between the German and French groups concerned. While on one side it seems impossible for German industry to pledge itself to the delivery of machinery, for example, without being assured of a supply of French ore, the French manufacturers hold the view that if they are to supply ore and even iron they must have definite German pledges as to the delivery in return of machinery, and possibly coal. It was finally agreed that the two delegations should be enlarged, and meet again shortly after the German elections.

PRINCE OF WALES IN MELBOURNE.

AUSTRALIAN SQUADRON REVIEWED.

An Exchange Company's telegram from Melbourne says:—A vast concourse of people attended the Prince of Wales' popular reception at the Exhibition Building. Twenty-five thousand people filed by the Prince. A cripple girl, after waiting for hours, presented a bunch of carnations to the Prince. She was rewarded with a hearty handshake and an earnest inquiry as to her health.

Amid scenes of the greatest enthusiasm, the Prince reviewed the Australian squadron.

COUNT KAROLYI IN DANGER.

A Reuter's telegram from Budapest on May 29 says—The Budapest Military Court has issued a warrant for the arrest of the former Premier, Count Michael Karolyi, who resigned his government in favour of Bela Kun. Count Karolyi is accused of inciting to the murder of Count Tisza, seducing the troops from their allegiance, lese Majeste, and revolt. He is believed to have fled the country.

ARRESTS IN COUNTY LEITRIM.

ENGINE DRIVER REFUSES TO CONVEY PRISONERS.

Four farmers' sons from Ballinamore (County Leitrim) were on Saturday remanded in connection with a raid for arms. Accused were conveyed to the railway station. A large crowd followed singing national airs, and when the driver of the train learned about the prisoners he detached the engine and refused to proceed. Amid much excitement the men were taken back to the barracks, and subsequently conveyed in a lorry to Sligo Prison.

A DERRYMAN AND HIS REVOLVER.

James Cullen, civilian, of 222 Lecky road, Londonderry, was tried by district courtmartial at Londonderry on 14th May, 1920, on charges under Regulation 9 A.A., D.R.R., of having a revolver and ammunition without a permit. He was found guilty and sentenced to two years' imprisonment, with hard labour. The evidence showed that the accused was arrested in the streets of Londonderry on the night of April 17th, when a riot was going on. He had a revolver in his pocket containing one discharged and three live rounds, and a quantity of loose revolver ammunition was also found on his person.

THE MARK'S RECOVERY.

DISCONCERTING CONSEQUENCES.

CRISIS IN HOME MARKET.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, MAY 24TH, 1920.

It is necessary to live in a country whose valuta is undergoing drastic changes in order to appreciate the confusion which it causes in the whole community, public and private. The unprecedented and prolonged sinking of the value of the mark was characterised as calamitous and as leading to inevitable bankruptcy—first of all, of the State, and then, as a consequence, of the enterprises in the State. The present crisis is due to the reverse cause—that is, a recovering tendency of the valuta. This movement in itself is, of course, in favour of the stability of the State and of the return of normal and healthy conditions throughout German industrial and commercial life; but the suddenness of the change has had such far-reaching effects that bankruptcies are following in consequence, and many more will take place.

The notice which appears this morning in the windows of Wertherin's general store in Berlin is typical. It reads:—"Great reduction in prices for footwear! The new prices are noted alongside the old, so that every customer may convince himself of the extraordinary reduction." Crowds of people stand before the windows scarcely able to believe their eyes. The case of the leather trade may be taken as an example of what is occurring universally. When the valuta was falling confidence in its recovery was so weak that every firm laid in as large a stock of leather or hides as it possibly could. Everywhere these stocks were held back in anticipation of further increases in price. The scarcity thus artificially produced reinforced the natural scarcity of hides and other raw materials till the prices reached figures altogether fantastic. Leather, however, is a commodity indispensable in many trades, and the prices, high as they were, had to be paid—hence the leather-consuming employé had to receive an increase of wages. The same process went on with every other article of popular consumption—clothing, foodstuffs, metals, etc. The two processes reinforced each other. The hoarding and speculating with goods caused wages to rise, and rise of wages reduced the relative value of the stocks, leading to further rises in prices.

The limit to which prices could rise was that of the price on the world market, reckoned in marks at the prevailing rate of exchange. This limit was being rapidly approached, and, in the case of boots, was actually reached. That is to say, boots cost as much in marks as in Great Britain they cost in shillings, the rate of exchange being taken into account. The whole cause of the great discrepancy at first between German and foreign prices was the fact that the mark, largely as a result of political causes, had dropped with great suddenness, and the market was adjusting itself, in accordance with a natural law, to the normal level.

The political situation, however, has suddenly improved so far as Germany is concerned, and the general return to a normal state of affairs (perceptible all over the world), the re-opening of sources of supply, the improvement of transport, the increased supplies of food, etc., have removed some of the chief obstacles to German recovery. Credit, both public and private, has already been granted or is about to be granted. Hence the German market is no longer in a water-tight compartment. It is in competition with the outside world. The clearing of the political sky, however, gives new confidence in Germany's power of recovery, and the rate of exchange improves accordingly. The granting of credit has a like effect. Hence, instead of Germany's being in such a condition that the country could only export but not import, the position is reversing itself.

Owing to the higher cost of labour—eight to twelve times peace rates—the cost of production in Germany cannot fall rapidly or far. The cost of raw materials bought abroad already has fallen greatly; the cost of labour actually is increasing. The result is that the foreign-made article is now far cheaper, and Germany is turned into a country favourably situated as regards import. The effect of this upon trade and production is disastrous. As regards the home market, the effect is that the public, noticing that prices are falling, refuses to buy at all in anticipation of getting better bargains later. Hence in shops and warehouses everywhere there is a slackness, an absence of customers. If one ventures into the shop one is besieged by attendants, who, a few weeks ago, hardly deigned to notice one. Everywhere are notices of great bargains to be had. Clothing and metals in particular, have fallen, and also such useful mechanical requisites as typewriters. In the latter line there is actually an over-supply as against an unprecedented dearth a few weeks ago.

As regards export trade, it has virtually ceased in many lines. In spite of the regulation of prices by the export boards, it has been, in practice, customary to reckon prices in marks. Where prices have been calculated in foreign currency the German merchant is in despair, since in less than three weeks the value of the British pound sterling has fallen from 220 marks to 160 marks, and his former prices are now ruinous. If he quoted for his foreign customer in marks, the foreigner, having to pay so many more pounds or dollars, or crowns than he expected, is cancelling all his orders with German firms. I have myself read letters from Sweden and America, in which large cancellations were made, because the locally-made article was cheaper. Germany, to compete, must sell at least at 20% below competitor's prices. Hence the German loses both ways.

The only cure for the present state of affairs is a reduction of the prices of labour. But since at present the public will not buy anything, the shops are clearing no stocks, are ordering nothing from the factories, which, being now over-stocked with manufactured goods produced at high cost, do not want to produce more, and so are discharging hands. The outlook as regards the labour market might well give rise to pessimism. The whole labouring community, however, is so highly organised, and, through recent experiences, so highly intelligent, that its inertia to adaptation may be less than is now anticipated.

RUMBLINGS IN GERMANY.

ANOTHER UPHEAVAL FEARED.

A Reuter's telegram from Berlin on Saturday says—Alarmist reports of an impending outbreak, says the Vorwaerts, are reaching us from all parts of the Republic, and there appears to be no doubt that an extensive enterprise is being prepared. This paper hears, for example, from a "reliable source" in Frankfort, that the German Nationalists, and the Militarists allied with them, intend to carry out on June 5 or 6 a great plan to overthrow the Republic and hinder the elections. The affair this time has been most carefully planned and organised, and the leadership is in the hands of four Generals.

Another Berlin message says—A telegram from Beuthen, Upper Silesia, reports serious riots there, resulting in the death of three persons and the wounding of ten others. The trouble began with an anti-Polish demonstration outside the hotel occupied as headquarters by the Polish Plebiscite Commission, the crowd being excited by a report that a German had been stabbed whilst defending a girl from a French soldier. The hotel was stormed, and partially burned down.

An Exchange telegram from Berlin states—Rumours of revolts persist, but more and more they assume the character of electioneering manœuvres. The rival parties are again and again accusing each other of plots which they are unable to prove.

GREEKS IN WESTERN THRACE.

FLIGHT OF BULGARIAN INHABITANTS.

According to a telegram from Constantinople, the Greek military occupation of Western Thrace will be completed by the end of the present week. Bulgarian inhabitants in the region of Gumurjena, not wishing to remain under Greek rule, are migrating in large numbers to Bulgaria.

It is officially announced, says a telegram from Athens, that Greek troops have occupied Dedeagach as well as Gumuldjina. A considerable force of covering troops have been sent towards the Bulgarian frontier.

VATICAN AND THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

MR. BALFOUR'S PROPOSAL.

A telegram from Rome, dated May 29th, says:—The Tribuna states that, on the suggestion of Count de Salis, the British Minister to the Holy See, Mr. Balfour, in one of the last sittings of the Council of the League of Nations, proposed the admission of the Vatican to the League. The proposal was not accepted, it being pointed out that the League was formed by representatives of nations, and not by representatives of rulers or the heads of States, as the Pope is still considered to be.

ARRESTS UNDER "CURFEW" ORDER.

THE KILMALLOCK CRIME.

TRIBUTE TO GALLANT DEFENDERS.

PROMOTIONS AND GRATUITIES AWARDED.

FUNERAL OF DEAD CONSTABLE.

PANIC IN THE TOWN.

MANY INHABITANTS LEAVE FOR THE COUNTRY.

Following the funeral of Constable Morton in Kilmallock yesterday, Major-General Tudor conferred the Police Medal on the surviving members of the garrison in recognition of their brave defence of their barracks.

He also promoted each of them, the sergeant to be head constable and the constables to be sergeants.

During Saturday night the inhabitants of the town were seized with panic, and many of them left for the homes of friends and relatives in the country.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

The official report of the attack on Kilmallock Barrack, issued last night, was as follows:—

On 28th May a party, estimated at about four hundred, attacked Kilmallock R.I.C. Barrack on three sides. The police put up their defence. They were repeatedly called on to surrender, but they refused. The attack lasted until 7.20 a.m., when the barrack was in flames. As a sergeant and constable were endeavouring to leave the burning building through the roof, it fell in, killing them. Their bodies were subsequently found in the débris in a charred condition. The other sergeant and his party left the building, and charged the raiders with fixed bayonets, and dispersed them, retaining their arms. In this charge Constable Hoey was seriously wounded, and a surgeon had to be requisitioned from Cork. The other men with the exception of one were wounded. The police are satisfied that in the bayonet charge the raiders had three casualties. The main line from Dublin to Cork was cut up and the rails removed. The night mail on arrival in Limerick Junction had fragments of personal clothing adhering to the engine, and a kidney was found in the fire-box. The telephone receiver at Emly Railway Cabin was removed by armed men. All roads leading from Kilmallock were blocked at various places for several miles.

Our Reporter telegraphed from Kilmallock last night:—

On arrival in Kilmallock yesterday evening I found a spirit of alarm and unrest prevailing in the town. Business was virtually at a standstill, and many of the shops were closed. The people seemed to be alarmed by the report of shots which had been fired in the streets on Friday night. In the small hours of Saturday morning they were further alarmed by the discovery that during the night the People's Hall, a building erected by the townsfolk some six years ago, had been burned to the ground, and nothing but smouldering ruins remained. The People's Hall is situated quite close to the smouldering ruins of the police barracks, and it may have become ignited through sparks from the latter building. The wildest surmises were, however, afloat in the town.

On Saturday night the popular excitement took concrete shape in a general exodus from the town. One of the two hotels has been closed as a result of damage sustained during the raid, while at the other hotel guests were told that there might be nothing there for them at supper time, as there would probably be no one to cook or attend at table.

All sorts of vehicles were conveying shopkeepers and their families out of the town during the evening, and it seemed as though the majority of the inhabitants were determined to get out of Kilmallock before nightfall to friends in the country. Many of the poorer people left their cottages, and took refuge in the workhouse. As the evening advanced, however, the popular alarm appeared to subside somewhat, and, as later on nothing happened in any way to justify panic the night passed quietly, and the usual Sabbath peace pervaded the town to-day.

The only incident of note was the funeral of Const. Joseph P. Morton, one of the two policemen who were killed during the gallant defence of the police barracks. The charred body of the unfortunate man was conveyed yesterday to the Roman Catholic church, where a guard of honour of the Royal Irish Constabulary took up positions round the coffin. The funeral took place to-day to the local cemetery, and was a sad and impressive ceremony. The cortége was preceded by the Very Rev. Canon O'Shea, P.P.; Rev. Father Wolffe, C.C., and Rev. Father Manning, C.C. The coffin was borne in a hearse drawn by two horses, and in front of the hearse marched a firing party of Constabulary, with arms reversed. Several wreaths from the dead constable's comrades, relatives, and friends were placed upon the coffin, which was draped with the Union Jack. A number of children of the deceased, who leaves a family of eight to mourn his loss, walked behind the hearse, which was followed by mourning coaches with other relatives and friends. The rear of the procession was brought up by a party of about one hundred Constabulary, in charge of District Inspectors Marrinan and Egan and Captain Regan, D.I.

There were also at the funeral Major-General Tudor, who had travelled specially from Dublin to attend; General Decies, Divisional Commissioner of Constabulary for the Counties of Limerick, Clare, and Tipperary, and several military officers. The band of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers played Chopin's Funeral March as the cortége proceeded through the town to the cemetery. Very few townspeople attended the funeral, but there were small groups along the thoroughfares, who lifted their hats as the coffin was borne past.

An exciting incident occurred at the corner of Main street and Water street. The horses attached to the hearse became restive, and refused to go forward. After about five minutes' delay the coffin was taken from the hearse, and removed on the shoulders of policemen to the cemetery, a few hundred yards away. At the close of the religious ceremony at the grave-side, three volleys were discharged by the firing party, and the Last Post was sounded. The military and police who had taken part in the funeral then formed up, and marched back through the town.

They halted in front of the ruins of the police barracks, where they were drawn up, and briefly addressed by Major-General Tudor, who pinned the Constabulary Medal on the breast of each of the five unwounded survivors of the defenders of the police barracks.

GALLANT DEFENDERS PROMOTED.

Major-General Tudor, in the course of his address, said that he had travelled down from Dublin to find out how arrangements stood in Kilmallock, and what force it would be necessary to bring. He promised the local police that they would be supported to the fullest possible extent, and warmly congratulated them on the bravery they had shown, and pointed out that the decoration they had received was equivalent to the D.C.M., for the conferring of which on the Constabulary no power yet existed.

Each constable who was decorated was promoted to the rank of sergeant, while Sergeant Sullivan was promoted to head constable. There would be a special gratuity of £50 to Sergeant Sullivan, and of £25 to each of the constables.

With reference to the granting of compensation in the Law Court to policemen, General Tudor announced that in cases where such applications were granted the grant would be made by the Government to the person concerned, with a view to avoiding any unnecessary delay in the recovery of the amount.

The names of the men decorated and promoted are—Sergeant Sullivan, Constables O'Sullivan, Bailey, Holmes, and Hall.

Major-General Tudor motored to the local hospital, and also bestowed the medal on Constable Hoey, who was wounded in the hip during the attack on the barracks.

It is very difficult to estimate the number of those who participated in the attack on Friday morning last. Some of those living in the vicinity of the barracks are positive that there were at least 400 men engaged, and that while the action was taking place others were scattered around the fields and along the highways. All the telegraph and telephone wires were known to have been cut at about 11 o'clock on Thursday night. The shattered state of the windows and the bullet marks on the walls of the Provincial Bank, the post office, and Clery's Hotel, and Herlihy's tobacconist shop bear silent testimony to the vigour of the defence put up by the police.

As to what casualties were sustained by the attacking party, the reports are conflicting, but there appears to be very little doubt that at least one lost his life and his body was removed in a motor car. It was rumoured through the town that several other policemen had been burned to death in the ruins of the police barracks and that their remains were incinerated. This rumour is, however, emphatically contradicted by the police, who state that all the men who were in the barracks during the attack have been accounted for.

Speaking at last Mass in the Roman Catholic church to-day, the Rev. Father Wolffe said that everybody in the parish deplored the death of Constable Morton and expressed sympathy with

MR. J. H. THOMAS AND RAILWAY STRIKES.

THE POSITION IN IRELAND.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, addressing the railwaymen at Southport yesterday, condemned the "work to rule and slow gear" method now practised on some railways, and said that it was doing serious harm, and rendering the position of the railway leaders intolerable. Alluding to certain seamen during the war refusing to take a certain deputation over seas, Mr. Thomas remarked that he was struck at the short-sightedness of that. He ventured at the time to point out that they were sowing the wind and would reap the whirlwind. Now, every dispute that was taking place, whatever be the merits of it, was finding a reflex in an entirely different way to that previously adopted. There is not a day passes, he added, without our Executive Committee receiving an application to refuse to allow railwaymen to handle goods here and carry traffic there because there happens to be a dispute in some other industry. In other words, the working classes are taking advantage of and applying the same weapons that the other people applauded during the war. If the aid of the railwaymen is to be sought there is a similar obligation that they shall be consulted before being called upon to play some part in such dispute. He repudiated the idea that the working classes movement was in some magic way separated from the rest of the community, and in whatever they did they should recognise that their success or disaster was dependent on the interests and prosperity of the nation as a whole.

Referring to the political situation, Mr. Thomas said that although the war was not even yet officially over, we found a distinguished man, Field-Marshal Wilson, making a speech and saying that people who told the nation that this was a war to end war were only talking humbug, and that we must prepare ourselves and get ready for the next war. (Cries of "Shame.") Yes, it would be a shame if the people allowed these military men to once more lead us to the precipice. The shame would be if the men and women of this land did not decide that war should be impossible in the future. (Cheers.) The position was absolutely tragic in India and Egypt. There was seething discontent, and a critical situation was being encouraged to make war with Russia. (A Voice—"Churchillism.") There was a lot of truth in that interjection, but if the working people would return their Churchills they must bear the burden. If these military sentiments and jingo spirit were showing themselves so soon after the war, it made them despair for the future. He commended the action of the Government in meeting the Soviet representative despite the prejudicial attitude of sections of the Press. If ill-will was going to drive the Central Powers to revolution its reflex in this country would be inevitable.

Replying to questions, Mr. Thomas said that if a Labour Government were in power it would be its duty to preserve law and order, but it would not institute a régime such as that which existed in Ireland now. It would be the duty of a Labour Government to try freedom, and see if it could do what militarism had failed to do. Whilst no one can defend, and I will not defend, outrage and the murder of policemen in Ireland, it is, in my judgment, the inevitable result of militarist rule. I think the first solution for Ireland is, instead of Prussianism, to place our obligation on the Irish people to put a stop to murder and outrage.

Asked what was going to be done about arms going into Ireland, Mr. Thomas said that it was impossible for him to say the decision which Labour would officially come to on that matter.

PARTY FEELING IN NEWTOWNHAMILTON.

Our Armagh Correspondent telegraphs:—During the "hiring fair" in Newtownhamilton on Saturday a disturbance took place between Nationalists and Unionists, but the police, who apparently expected some such outbreak, were at hand, and separated the combatants.

his widow and family. He counselled the people in the terrible times they were going through to be calm and dignified, and said that they should do nothing to disgrace the reputation of Irish courage. Above all he advised children to keep away from the places where military and police gathered.

A building which up to a few weeks ago was used as a private residence by a local solicitor has been secured by the police and military as a temporary barracks. To-day the entrance to the new barracks was defended by sand bags, while the high wall bordering a field on the opposite side of the road was knocked down, apparently with a view to depriving any attackers of an opportunity of effecting a surprise or using it as a breastwork from behind which to discharge their rifles or throw bombs. The windows of the building, which is a few hundred yards beyond the ruins of the old town gate, have also been sand-bagged and fitted with steel shutters.

Some residents of the town complained this morning that attempts had been made during the night to set fire to their houses. In no instance was there any evidence of serious damage, but some street doors appeared to have been scorched.

So far as could be ascertained, no arrests have been made in connection with the raid, though there was considerable military and police activity during the day. Armed patrols of soldiers and police were on duty in the streets to-night.

THE INQUEST.

The inquest on the bodies of Sergeant Kean and Constable Morton was opened on Saturday morning in the courthouse by Dr. P. J. Clery, District Coroner. District Inspector Egan attended on behalf of the police. Only four jurors out of fourteen, who had been summoned attended, and the District Inspector asked to have the jurors called on fines, describing their failure to appear as the most contemptible piece of cowardice that could possibly be imagined.

The Coroner adjourned the inquest till 3 p.m., but at 4 o'clock only six jurors were present.

The Coroner pointed out that a sufficient number of jurors were not present, and in consequence no inquest could be held.

The incinerated remains of Sergeant Kean were subsequently conveyed to the railway station for removal to Dublin, where they will be interred in Glasnevin Cemetery.

COUNTY ANTRIM BARRACKS ATTACKED.

RAIDERS FRUSTRATED BY LOYALIST VILLAGERS.

Early yesterday morning twenty armed and masked men visited Gulleybackey (County Antrim), and fired the police barracks, in which there was a constable and his family. The men then decamped, and villagers turned out in large numbers to extinguish the flames.

The summary of official reports of outrages received on 29th May, and issued last night, included the following:—

VALUABLE TIPPERARY PROPERTY ATTACKED AND BURNED.

Mr. W. P. Hanly, Lanespark, Thurles, writes to state that he has just been informed that a property of his, called Angrove House, Drumbaun, Thurles, was recently inspected by the military for occupation, without his knowledge. "The result has been," he states, "that last Tuesday night, at 2 o'clock, the place was attacked by 100 armed men, who removed the caretaker and his young children, and burned the house to the ground, with its contents." Mr. Hanly has lodged a claim for £10,000 compensation.

TOWN SWEPT BY FLOOD.

REMARKABLE AFFAIR IN LINCOLNSHIRE.

TWENTY LIVES LOST.

BRIDGES AND HOUSES CARRIED AWAY.

The little Lincolnshire town of Louth, of 10,000 inhabitants, was visited by a terrible occurrence on Saturday afternoon, when the tiny stream known as the River Lud, which passes through the heart of the borough, was converted into a devastating flood of such magnitude that its origin could only be attributed to the bursting of a waterspout. Most of the inhabitants were kept indoors by a thunderstorm about five o'clock, when the calamity happened, and it was some time before those not immediately affected realised what had occurred. Bridges were demolished, houses flooded, and buildings wrecked, furniture, domestic animals, and human beings being swept away by the sudden rush of water, which was two hundred yards wide. Firemen in attendance at the fire station were carried away, and three children were drowned in a house hard by, the water rising practically to the ceilings. In many houses, people having taken refuge in upper storeys and in trees, several were trapped by the water and drowned. Others were rescued only with difficulty.

Roads were blocked with débris, houses partially demolished, bridges swept away, and one half of the town is isolated from the other. The body of one woman was washed up in the grounds of the Mayor's residence, which was in the path of the inundation, and many old and helpless people rendered temporarily homeless.

Relief measures were swiftly organised by the Town Council and citizens. All through the night rescue work and the recovery of bodies proceeded, and in Louth itself at ten o'clock yesterday morning no less than twenty bodies had been recovered. It is believed that this does not represent the whole of the loss of life, even in the town itself, and reports from the surrounding districts render it probable that accidents have occurred in villages in the course of the stream. Hundreds have been rendered temporarily homeless in the town, where the Corporation and inhabitants generally have provided food and shelter. One fireman was drowned.

Telegraphing yesterday afternoon, the Press Association Correspondent says:—Throughout to-day the people were engaged in clearing the débris, but at the time of telegraphing the death roll had not been increased, although several other persons are reported missing. Villages to the east of Louth do not appear to have suffered severely, as the water spread out and flooded the houses to a much less depth than in places to the south of the town.

Among incidents of the floods is one of a somewhat remarkable character. A white pig was noticed to be floating on a piece of timber when a black pig fought it for the place, and ultimately beat its white rival.

To-day at least one of the local chapels was closed, the young minister who had been appointed to preach declaring that at such times Christianity lay in helping the stricken people. He accordingly pulled off his coat and assisted in clearing the houses which had been invaded by the flood.

The conviction that the catastrophe was due to a cloudburst gains strength as more definite information comes to hand from the villages, several places in the marsh lands east of Louth having escaped altogether.

The following list of dead was obtained this evening:—Sarah Bishop, Cannon street Court; three children of Mr. George Berry, a boy named Halligan, Chequingate; a cripple named Bateson, of Spout Yard; Mrs. Smith, of James street; unknown female, aged about 45 to 50, found in the Priory grounds; Charles T. S. Mitchison, of River Head; Miss Maggie Winton, of Eve street; Mr., Mrs., and Miss Swingler; female, unknown, aged about 25, found in James street; Mrs. and Miss Thorpe, James street; Lily Margaret Metcalf, 305 Heneage road, Grimsby; Phillipson, fireman; Miss Ellen Kirkham, Commercial road; Fred. Fytche, gardener.

ELECTION CANDIDATES' ACTION.

Both candidates in the by-election have decided, out of respect for the dead, to abandon political meetings arranged in Louth for Tuesday and Wednesday.

GRIMSBY FLOODED.

The tremendous rainfall at Grimsby has culminated in floods in the lower parts of the town, including the parks. The water entered the houses in some streets, and the fire brigade men were called upon to pump water out of the theatre and other large buildings. The railway lines were under water between Grimsby and Louth.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC INTERRUPTED.

Traffic on the main London and North-Western Railway between Preston and Lancaster has been blocked since eight o'clock on Saturday night, over 40 yards of railway being washed away near Brock Station, about 15 miles south of Lancaster, owing to the terrific rainfall during the thunderstorms on Saturday, which is described by some inhabitants as a waterspout. The River Brock descended with torrential force from Bleasdale Fells, and, breaking the river banks, filled the valley, and formed a huge lake. Eventually the water found an outlet through a small bridge which enables cattle to pass from one side of the railway to the other. The stonework was swept away like a log cabin, and with it came about 40 yards of the railway, over which heavy Whit week traffic was still due to pass, including expresses from Carlisle to Euston. Steps were, however, taken to suspend and divert the traffic, and fortunately no casualties occurred. The flood at the maximum height reached 30 feet above the normal watermark.

A thunderbolt fell at Cambridge on Saturday, and dashed through a house. No one was injured. Prince Henry was on the polo ground opposite the house.

IRISH RIOT IN GLASGOW.

ATTEMPT TO DROWN A POLICEMAN.

A large number of Irishmen were mixed up in a street disturbance in Glasgow late on Saturday night, which developed into a riot. An ordinary street row resulted in the arrest of two men, whereupon the crowd attacked the police. Several Irishmen shouted, "Up the rebels," "Give them what we give them in Ireland." Several men seized a constable, and were lifting him over a bridge to throw him into the Clyde when assistance arrived. The riot took place near the police barracks, and reinforcements hurried out, but two baton charges were necessary before the mob dispersed. Twenty men and one woman were arrested, and the police had difficulty in getting their prisoners to the lock-up. So dense was the crowd that the tramcar and other traffic was suspended. Six constables were so badly mauled that they had to be medically treated.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE AND THE BOLSHEVIK DELEGATE.

Mr. Lloyd George left his official residence early on Saturday afternoon to return to Cobham. No further conference of Ministers was held, and Mr. Lloyd George has not yet seen M. Krassin. So far, no meeting between the British Premier and the Bolshevik representative has been arranged.

REV. MR. NORTH RECEIVED BY THE KING.

The King's visitors at Buckingham Palace on Saturday included Rev. F. W. North, who recently returned from Moscow. Mrs. North accompanied her husband, and His Majesty learned from them of the trying times experienced by British residents in Moscow.

ROYAL VISIT TO MILITARY AND NAVAL TOURNAMENT.

The King and Queen, with Princess Mary, witnessed the Naval and Military Tournament in London on Saturday. Their Majesties were received at Olympia by General Jeffreys, Commander of the London District, guards of honour of the Coldstream Guards and sailors being mounted. These were inspected by the King in the arena. Their Majesties appeared thoroughly to enjoy the tournament, and joined with the spectators in applauding the competitors. The Royal party remained to witness the final military pageant, and before leaving expressed to General Jeffreys their appreciation of the whole performance.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.

Attention is directed to the announcement in our advertising columns from the management of the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin. Owing to the existing difficulties with regard to transport the appearance of "The Purple Mask" Company has had to be postponed. Should the company be able to fulfil any part of its engagement notice will be given to the public. In the meantime tickets will be exchanged or the money will be returned where seats have been booked.

UNITED PRAYER FOR IRELAND.

Owing to the unsettled state of Ireland it has been arranged to hold intercessory meetings in the Y.M.C.A., Belfast, on Wednesday next. The meetings will be held at 11 a.m., when Rev. H. Montgomery will be chairman; at 3.30 p.m. (chairman, Bishop of Down and Connor), 8 p.m. (chairman, Rev. H. McKeag).

SPECIAL EXTRA.

THE LOUTH FLOODS.

DEATH ROLL SAID TO HAVE REACHED 50.

According to The Times, the death roll in the Louth disaster is unofficially estimated as not less than fifty. Among the bodies recovered are those of four firemen. The town is described as one vast spectacle of devastation. The sorry task of search parties is brought home by the fact that in one instance a complete terrace of 12 or 15 houses was entirely demolished, and of the former residents only one has survived.

In another version of the disaster a Grimsby Correspondent of the Press Association says:—The torrent of water rushed through the town at a rate of nearly forty miles an hour, sweeping everything before it. Nearly one thousand persons are rendered homeless, and the damage to property is estimated at between £50,000 and £100,000.

The Mayor started a relief fund, which reached £1,100 up to Sunday night. The artillery barracks and the Town Institute are among the buildings destroyed, most of which, however, was small cottage property. A large number of horses and cows were destroyed. The Mayoress, wading waist deep, rescued 23 sheep, driving them into a field. A boy named Fripp, the mother and father being drowned, was swept away and found suspended in a tree. One man lost £200, his life's savings. A Mrs. Ferry, who lost three children, was herself saved by clinging to poles.

AN OFFICER'S ACCOUNT.

The Special Correspondent of the Morning Post at Louth says:—Captain Hill, who was with the famous 29th Division at Gallipoli, has given me the clearest account of the course of the flood. About 5 o'clock it was raining, but not heavily. All at once a flood came rushing down the street. It was at its first onset more fierce, he says, than the flood which is famous in the battle story of Gallipoli. It rose at the rate of a foot a minute. Within a quarter of an hour it was up 15 feet, and where there had been streets there was a torrential river. Setting at once to help, Captain Hill saw houses collapse as if they had been mined, and people swept away beyond hope of rescue. The citizens of the town give ungrudging praise to the heroic work of what is already known as "the soldiers' party." It is told, with something of pride in the midst of their mourning, that one of the leaders of this party was a V.C. A little child going to church this morning was telling all her friends—"And I was rescued by a Victoria Cross soldier."

Captain Gee is prostrated by the efforts he made yesterday, and has been ordered to keep to his bed. He was very seriously wounded in the great war, and the strain of battling with the flood waters was too much for his enfeebled constitution. But it is hoped that with care he will soon recover. When the news came that people were in danger, owing to the flood which was coming down, Captain MacCaw, Captain Gee, V.C.; Captain Loseby, M.P.; Captain Rix, and others went down to the river side, and a living chain was formed across the racing flood towards some houses where women and children were appealing for succour from the roofs or the top storeys. Everybody gave a hand, and in all about a dozen people were brought to safety at this particular point.

THE GOVERNMENT AND CRIME IN IRELAND.

The Daily Telegraph Parliamentary Correspondent writes:—The Government is devoting full attention to the serious state of affairs in Ireland. Following the discussion at the meeting of Ministers on Friday, a Cabinet Council has been summoned for to-day, and it is understood that the chief business will be the consideration of the Government's Irish policy. That the proceedings are likely to be of great importance is indicated by the fact that both Viscount French and Sir Hamar Greenwood are taking part in the deliberations. The new Chief Secretary will report upon the general situation and the boycott of munitions traffic by Irish railway workers.

TROOPS TO TRANSPORT MUNITIONS FOR IRELAND.

The Daily Chronicle Political Correspondent writes:—An important meeting of the Cabinet has been summoned for to-day to consider the difficulties which are arising in Ireland. Mr. Lloyd George is coming up from Cobham, and Lord French, who has returned from Ypres, will be present. Sir Hamar Greenwood and Sir Nevil Macready will also come to London specially. The Cabinet have to make arrangements for munitions and military stores to be transported by our troops, since other facilities are denied. Questions connected with the dispatch of troops have also arisen. It is calculated that there are now about 50,000 troops in Ireland, and several more battalions are under orders. Mr. Lloyd George, at Friday's meeting of the Cabinet, fully informed himself of the imminent facts of the situation, and to-day's meeting is the sequel. The Correspondent adds that a Sub-Committee of the Triple Alliance will meet in London to-day to make arrangements for a general meeting, but it is not likely that the Triple Alliance will support the action of their Irish sections.

LORD ASHBOURNE IN PARIS.

A telegram from Paris yesterday says:—A demonstration took place here this morning in honour of St. Joan of Arc. A number of people gathered in the Boulevarde Malesherbes, and after forming a procession marched through the streets and laid garlands and bunches of flowers on monuments to the Maid. Enormous crowds lined the route and cheered the procession, and particularly the groups of disabled soldiers, Alsatians, Lorrainers, and Bretons, at the head of whom was Lord Ashbourne. Lord Ashbourne created quite a sensation, wearing an orange kilt, grey jacket, green plaid, and a black Glengarry. In the course of a speech he said that in the time of Joan of Arc Scotland was the ally of France. "I am of Scottish origin," he added, "and it is, therefore, quite natural that I should be here." No regrettable incident marred the impressiveness of this national tribute to the heroine of France.

THE GERMAN PLOT.

A Times telegram from Berlin on Sunday says:—A Frankfurt-on-Oder newspaper learns that the military party there is organising an anti-Republican coup for June 5th or 6th, when it is intended to prevent the elections. The newspaper says that the action has been carefully prepared, and will be carried out under the leadership of four Generals, and that 2,300 officers in the uniform of private soldiers have been fully equipped as a Frankfort assault detachment. The capture of Berlin will be conducted from Pomerania, with Greifswald as the basis of operations.

CHARGES AGAINST WORKHOUSE MASTER.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT BOARD INQUIRY.

For the greater part of two days Mr. A. Robinson and Mr. A. P. Delany, Local Government Board Inspectors, have been engaged in investigating a series of charges made against Mr. Cosgrove, the Master of the Waterford Workhouse. The charges, which were made on signed statements by certain persons, and forwarded to the Local Government Board, were as follows:—(1) causing, or allowing, to be taken from the Workhouse Stores to his own apartments various articles of food to which he was not entitled; (2) removing, causing, or allowing to be removed, from the Workhouse food and other articles, the property of the Workhouse; (3) provisioning the caretaker of a farm in which he (the Master) is interested; (4) removing, or causing to be removed, from the Workhouse hayshed fodder for the use of his pony; (5) obtaining by dockets from contractors of the Union meat to which he was not entitled, and charging same to the credit of the Union; (6) permitting James Gallagher, his brother-in-law, a former Assistant Master, to send eggs from the workhouse by pauper inmates for sale; (7) causing, or allowing, to be removed to his own quarters from the Workhouse Stores quantities of sugar to which he was not entitled, while sugar was removed from the inmates of the Infirmary on the grounds that it could not be obtained.

The Master, Mr. Cosgrove, was represented by Mr. Robert Kinahan (instructed by Mr. P. A. Murphy, solicitor).

The inquiry concluded on Saturday.

SHELBOURNE FAIR.

At the great fête to raise funds for the children who are cared for by the Women's National Health Association, which is to be held at Shelbourne Park, Dublin, from June 29th to July 4th, the most interesting feature will be the Irish Market, which is to be on a great scale, and—for the promoters remember the vagaries of our climate—under cover. The market will be a very picturesque, as well as a practical, affair. Everything that is saleable will be sold there. Greens, milk, butter, eggs, garden produce, honey, cream, with flowers to deck the feast. There will be clothes for the body and books for the mind; all manner of articles of household utility, live stock perhaps, birds, who knows, because the gifts will come from the generous public. There will be no "profiteering," but honest barter; and what profits come will go to put flesh on the Dublin babies in particular, but the work of the Association is not confined to Dublin. This is not a fête, but a fair, an honest, wholesome, out-of-door country fair, in which the Colleens and Vanithes will sell their wares. Gifts and donations may be sent to the Secretaries 9 Ely place, Dublin.

An alleged attempt has been made to blow up the Duffrnammar Colliery, Carmarthenshire. An explosion occurred on Saturday morning, and shook the whole neighbourhood, and subsequently a quantity of high explosive was found near the mine. Little damage was done.

DUBLIN DOCK STRIKE.

FOODSTUFFS RETURNED TO CONSIGNORS.

GENERAL SITUATION UNCHANGED.

There was no change during the week-end in the situation brought about in Dublin by the refusal of the dockers and quay labourers in the employment of the London and North-Western Railway Company to unload munitions from the Slievemore and South Stack at the North Wall, and it is not expected that there will be any development in the strike until the Triple Alliance has met in London and considered the various aspects of the questions raised. Pickets of strikers were again on duty in the vicinity of the two vessels and the stores of the railway company on Saturday, and it was observed that their numbers had been increased. No incidents of any description occurred, the men simply seeing that nothing was removed, except certain classes of goods in respect of which permits had been issued by the Strike Committee.

The Strike Committee held a meeting at its headquarters in Oriel street on Saturday morning. Mr. Denis Kelly occupied the chair, and, after discussion of questions arising out of the strike, it was decided that consignors would be given permission to remove foodstuffs such as eggs, butter, margarine, and bacon, lying at the premises of the London and North-Western Railway Company. The Committee agreed to unload the waggons, and sent instructions to the men employed by the Midland Great Western Railway Company and the Great Southern and Western Company that, if the consignors in the provinces desired to bring their produce back by rail, engines were to be sent to the North Wall for that purpose.

Mr. James Bermingham, Irish Secretary of the National Union of Railwaymen, told an Irish Times representative that the decision of the Strike Committee was arrived at following consultations which he had with the Committee, in view of the fact that the people needed foodstuffs, and that the men were anxious that the people should have the benefit of them. The permission to remove butter, eggs, bacon, etc., he said, would enable the owners to dispose of the foodstuffs in any way that they thought fit. The Ministry of Transport had been acquainted with the decision, and Mr. H. G. Burgess, the Director-General, had promised to communicate with all the Irish railway companies concerned, with a view to carrying out the removal of those goods from the North Wall.

Permits were issued to a number of firms, such as Liptons, who removed a large consignment of margarine. Messrs. Feehan and Sons, Tullamore, removed by motor lorry a large quantity of perishable goods consigned to a Manchester firm. Other firms in the city and country also availed themselves of the decision of the Strike Committee.

So far as the London and North-Western Railway Company is concerned, it was stated by Mr. H. W. Ede, the Assistant Manager, that the situation still remained the same, the work of the company being held up.

The ss. Curraghmore again brought a large number of passengers to the North Wall on Saturday morning. These had been informed prior to embarking that they would have to unload their luggage. They did so when the boat was berthed, and, securing cars, drove to the city. A number of soldiers and airmen were amongst the passengers, and also a further draft of recruits from England for the Royal Irish Constabulary. The recruits were driven in police motor cars to the Depôt in Phoenix Park. Some Constabulary stores were removed by the police.

MILITARY STORES REFUSED AT BROADSTONE.

About five o'clock on Saturday evening a military lorry, guarded by armed soldiers, arrived at the Broadstone Terminus with five cases, stated to contain eggs and glass, which were to be sent to Athenry by the night mail train leaving at 7.30 p.m. A number of members of the National Union of Railwaymen approached the stationmaster ten minutes before the departure of the train, and informed him that the train would not run if the cases were not removed. The stationmaster at once saw the officer in charge of the soldiers, the railwaymen in the meantime refusing to continue the loading of the mails. As a result of the interview between the stationmaster and the officer, the cases were taken out of the van, and the train started one minute behind time. The railwaymen allege that the cases contained rifles.

SS. SIR EVELYN WOOD.

Soldiers were engaged all day yesterday discharging the ss. Sir Evelyn Wood. The goods unloaded were foodstuffs, which were placed in railway waggons on the Victoria Wharf. A large quantity of empties were delivered at Kingstown by military motor lorries for removal by the Sir Evelyn Wood. A whippet tank has replaced the armoured car which was hitherto stationed on the Victoria Wharf.

MEETING OF RAILWAYMEN.

ACTION OF THE LABOUR PARTY.

TRIPLE ALLIANCE TO BE INTERVIEWED.

An all-grade meeting of members of the National Union of Railwaymen was held in the Trades Hall, Capel street, Dublin, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. James Bermingham, Irish Secretary, who presided, said that they were met under some of the most uncertain circumstances in which a body of men could possibly meet. They were circumstances of such a nature that he almost trembled to approach them. The question of munitions had been fully reported, and was receiving the most acute attention of the National Union of Railwaymen. It had now been relegated by that body to the Triple Alliance. He complimented the men involved in the North Wall dispute on their action in having saved four hundred tons of foodstuffs that were perishing at the North Wall by allowing it to go on the market. During the week four Executive members and two organisers had a most successful tour through Ireland.

Mr. Harris, Organising Secretary, London District, spoke of the pleasure that himself and his friends had derived from their Irish visit. He admitted that the English Labour machine moved slowly, but its leaders were true as steel, and he believed in the long run that they would see justice done to the workers on this side of the water. Whilst not forestalling the decision of the Triple Alliance, he hoped that the result would be such that the workers of this country would be freer than they had been for the last century and a half. He also refrained from discussing the methods which might be adopted, but they had taken steps not to send munitions to Russia to down the democracies there, because whatever Government Russia had it was the business of that country, and what applied to Russia applied equally to every nation in the world. Appealing for unity and good-will amongst all sections of workers, Mr. Harris went on to urge the necessity for consultative committees amongst workers, with a view to putting a stop to "profiteering," which was the curse of the country.

Mr. Thomas Farren, President of the Irish Labour Party and Trade Union Congress, said that the Executive of the Labour Party the previous day had considered the question of the trouble regarding the handling of munitions, and had decided that it was not to be a fight by railwaymen and dockers, but would be a fight of the whole working-class people in Ireland. (Applause.) The question had been referred, on behalf of the railwaymen, to the Triple Alliance, and the National Executive of

ALEXANDRA COLLEGE GUILD.

THE WAR AND WOMEN.

FEMALE ABILITY ON THE LAND.

Conference Day in connection with Alexandra College Guild was held on Saturday last in the Jellicoe Hall of the College, Earlsfort terrace, Dublin. There was a large attendance, and at the morning session Miss White, LL.D., Acting President and Principal of the College, presided.

Messages of congratulation on the work of the Guild, and regret at not being able to be present at the Conference, were received from the Marchioness of Aberdeen, the Countess of Desart, Lady Battersea, Lady Coote, Lady Lyttelton, Mrs. Ogilvie Gordon (President of the National Council of Women), Mrs Henry Fawcett, Dr. Sophie Bryant, and others.

Miss H. Webb submitted a report of the Alexandra Working Girls' Club and Holiday Fund, which recorded a very successful year. There were fifty-nine members on the roll. There were always forty, and sometimes over fifty, at the singing classes. The drill classes had been taken by the College girls for the first time in fifteen years. The sewing classes had been very well attended. Last year they had two excursions.

Miss Boydell read a report of the Grenville Street Tenement Houses and Holiday Fund, showing that the tenants had thoroughly enjoyed many outings during the summer. Gifts of clothing were badly wanted. Last year twenty-five children had been sent to the country for a fortnight, and seven women to Enniskerry for a much-needed rest and change. The question of accommodation was each year becoming more acute, and a considerably higher price had to be paid for each child that was given a holiday.

Mrs. Greville presented a report of the Summerhill tenement houses, which stated that the rents had been punctually paid and there was only one tenant in arrears. The women were keeping their rooms clean. Last summer a number of the children enjoyed a fortnight's holiday at Enniskerry, and several Saturday outings were also held. The Emergency Fund had done good work during the winter.

Miss E. C. Perry, B.A., dealt with the College bursaries scheme. There had been a substantial increase in subscriptions and support for the Sick Emergency Fund, so that it was found possible to supply coal and extra help during illness and increased weekly grants in many cases.

Miss N. Mounsell read the report in connection with the Pembroke garden cottages, and Mrs. Starkie dealt with the Working Girls' Hostel.

MISS WHITE'S ADDRESS.

Miss White, in the course of her address, said that the Guild membership showed no diminution, but had reached the splendid total of 1,055. They had every cause to be grateful for the very large amount of voluntary work that was done in connection with the Guild organisations. To mention one branch—the bursaries—the collecting and distributing of upwards of £1,600 among thirty-eight annuitants involved no small amount of labour. The reports of their various organisations bore splendid testimony to the excellence and the extent of the work done by a large band of voluntary helpers, to whom their sincerest thanks were due. She emphasised the need for cast-off garments of all kinds for their poor tenants, and hoped that more members would invite tenants out for an afternoon during the summer, as Lady Ardilaun and Mrs. Everett most kindly and so frequently did last year. Gifts of country produce for their bursary ladies were deeply appreciated. By a generous jubilee gift of Miss H. M. Hutton, the Grenville street playroom was now lighted by acetylene gas. The members of the Factory Girls' Club had received a kind invitation from Lady Talbot de Malahide to spend an afternoon at Malahide Castle in June, and the Guild fête would be held on the 29th and 30th June. Despite the difficulties which confronted intending builders, they had been able to surmount them by the generosity of the Pembroke Irish Charities Trustees, who placed £3,000 in their hands to complete their garden village, and this had been done by the erection of four large cottages, which made a total of sixteen. It would scarcely be possible for anyone who had not had something to do with the letting of cottages to have any idea of the simply overwhelming demand that there was for, or of the total inadequacy of, housing accommodation for the poor, and visits to prospective tenants in their homes revealed further that the accommodation was, in many cases, not alone inadequate, but often scandalous. Having referred to the presence of Miss Stack and Dame Talbot, two of their speakers, and the subject of "Women on the Land," she said that she hoped that Dame Talbot's address might turn the thoughts of some of the members of the Guild to taking up work on the land. In horticulture, more especially, she always felt that there was a splendid scope for women to do good work in Ireland, as the resources of the country were not at all developed as they should be. Miss Stack's subject, "The Effect of the War on the Position of Women," was of deep and far-reaching importance. Nearly all doors to professional life now stood open to women, one of the last remaining barriers having fallen during the last few weeks, when the University of Oxford admitted women to its degrees, and another somewhat belated concession was made the other day, when the Synod of the Church of Ireland admitted women to vestries. The names of four women had recently appeared among the successful candidates for the Bar examination; and the vice-chairman of the London County Council was a woman. It was gratifying that among the Dublin lady magistrates two were members of the Guild—Lady Arnott, D.B.E., and Lady Dockrell. It was a great pleasure to the Guild that Lady Talbot de Malahide, a vice-president, had recently been made a D.B.E., and that Miss Marion Beard had been given the O.B.E. A most desirable innovation which the Home Secretary was desirous of bringing about in England, and which, she trusted, might find its way to Dublin, was that there should be juvenile courts, with women justices, sitting in town halls, schools, parish rooms—anywhere but the police courts. Speaking of woman's inventive faculty, Miss White quoted numerous inventions made by women; and added that the wider sphere and the fuller opportunities now open to them could only be of real benefit to the nation if women contributed those things which they themselves must provide—that wisdom and sound judgment which were the fruits of greatness of character. (Applause.)

WAR AND POSITION OF WOMEN.

Miss N. B. Stack, M.A., delivered an address on the subject of "The Effect of the War on the Position of Women," and first of all referred to the suffragist movement as it stood in 1913, leading up to the enfranchisement of women. Women workers in certain branches of industry were paid often at the rate of 8s. to 12s. a week, and conditions otherwise were extremely bad. When the war broke out there was no apparent chance of the vote being won, and some held that the agitation must go on, but the large majority, fortunately, thought that the war must come first, and in their thousands endeavoured to do war work. Between four and five million women were in such industries as textile, clothing, laundry, food, drink, and tobacco, commercial, clerical, and domestic service; but in the early years of the war there was a great expansion of women employment in industries and transport, and then there was the question of the substitution of women for men. In transport the substitution of women for men was about 700 per cent., and it was interesting to note the attitudes of trades unions in regard to payment of women at a rate equal to the payment of men. Equal payment had not been so well advocated as it should have been. There were now about 900,000 more women employed than in 1914 in the trades to which she had referred, but many of the more highly educated women who undertook industrial occupations from patriotic reasons only had returned to their homes. The women had been quite willing to surrender their jobs to men returning from the front, and had done so entirely voluntarily. The depletion in male labour owing to the war, on the one hand, and the increase in the total industrial strength required had made it possible to absorb considerably more women, as well as men, than was the case in 1914. It was in the more educated classes that the effect of the war had been more serious. Many women had undertaken work for the first time, having previously had just enough income to live on. With regard to the professions the war had a most extraordinary effect. In the teaching profession conditions had improved enormously, but not by any means corresponding to the increased cost of living. An effort was being made now to obtain equal pay and opportunities for men and women teachers, but there did not seem to be much immediate hope. In the Civil Service the opportunities for advancement were not equal, and a strong agitation had been started for equal conditions. With regard to University degrees, a greater advance had been made in Ireland than in England, and she hoped that Cambridge would shortly follow the example of Oxford. Women suffrage had undoubtedly made a great difference in the position of women in the moral, mental, and spiritual effect of the war. The desire for education had increased tenfold since the war, and women were realising their responsibility now as they never did before the war.

In the course of a discussion which followed, the opinion was expressed that women would have the power in the Church of Ireland to vote for parochial nominators and synodsmen. Matters relating to equality, and payment in relation to work, were also referred to.

The conference then adjourned until 3 o'clock, and when it was resumed,

Lady Talbot de Malahide, D.B.E., who then presided, said that those conferences usually brought them in touch with most interesting subjects, chiefly philanthropic, and dealing with the object of doing good acts and being kind to others. At those conferences also they had discussions, and suggestions made on social subjects which were of a very deep educational value.

Mrs. Preston, M.A., gave a summary of the work of the Guild, as reported on in the morning, and said that all the reports were cheering, and went to show that the work had been going on in the usual bright way. (Applause.)

WOMEN ON THE LAND.

Dame Meriel Talbot, D.B.E., read a paper on the subject of "Women on the land," in the course of which she referred to the urgent call for men during the great world struggle, and to the great difficulty in regard to the supply of food on which the country was depending. The great question before those connected with the agricultural industry in England and Wales was how to provide that vital supply, of which there was a serious and alarming shortage. An application was made for female labour to take the place of the men, and a woman inspector was appointed, and a Land Service Corps and the Women's Legion was raised. At that time there was a notion that farm work was a degrading sort of job, but that opinion had been swept away, she hoped never to return. One of the great reasons that led to the success of the Women's Land Army was the becoming dress of the women workers. When the scheme was started all classes of disasters were prophesied, and it was stated that women would not be the slightest good; that farmers would not employ them, and that farmers' wives would not have them; but it was surprising, considering the attractive positions which women could have got at the time, commanding better wages, that as many as 43,000 women offered their services for the Land Army. So strict was the examination that they had to go through that only 50 per cent. were accepted. The work was very exacting, especially during the winter months, and when they were asked how they stuck it they answered that it was not half so bad as it was for the boys at the front. There was no branch of farming operations that a woman could not do, and wartime experience had shown that when the country was in need it had the services of the women the same as it had of the men. (Applause.) Women could play an important part in the vital industry of agriculture, and should be encouraged to do so. (Applause.)

A vote of thanks having been passed to Lady Talbot de Malahide and to Dame Talbot, the conference concluded.

An enjoyable musical entertainment followed.

A Bombay telegram, dated Friday, states:—The newspaper comment throughout India indicates the feeling of relief at the vindication of the British by an honest investigation. The native Press adversely comments on the result.

A HOME-MADE GREY HAIR REMEDY.

You Can Make at Home a Better Grey Hair Remedy Than you Can Buy.

Grey streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. You can darken it without using a dye.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home, at very little cost, that will restore the original colour to grey hair. To a half pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine, and a small box of Orlex Compound. These ingredients can be bought at any Chemist's at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a grey haired person look twenty years younger. It is not a dye, it does not colour the most delicate scalp, is not greasy, and does not rub off. It will promote the growth of the hair, remove dandruff and make harsh hair soft and glossy.—(Advt.)

DUBLIN DOCK STRIKE.

the Labour Party had instructed Mr. Johnson and himself to cross over as soon as possible, and to interview the members of the Triple Alliance. (Applause.) They believed that the sinews of war would be required, and they were making arrangements whereby an appeal would be issued immediately calling on all the working-class people of Ireland to send in the "silver bullets" in order to assist the men in the front-line trenches. That war would be waged until the last man of the Army of Occupation was removed from the soil of Ireland. (Applause.) They were glad to see Mr. Harris there that day, as they had no quarrel with the democracy of Great Britain; they in Ireland were fighting their fight to-day. The war of extermination had gone on for seven hundred years, and it was going to be a fight to a finish. Mr. Macpherson's tactics of the iron rod had failed, and now a new gentleman had come with a silk glove on his hand, talking about conciliation, but there would be no conciliation until he and the thing that he represented cleared out. Then they would talk about conciliation. (Applause.) Concluding, Mr. Farren said that they had set themselves a big task, but it only needed a ready response, and, with every man ready to do what he was told to do, victory would be theirs in a very short time. (Applause.)

Mr. R. Hennessy, Chairman of the Inchicore branch, having referred to the settlement in regard to standardisation, went on to say that the munitions question was equally important for the workers on the other side of the water as for those in Ireland. (Hear, hear.) The Irish Times lamented the fact that, owing to the action of the railway people, there was a great possibility of the tourist industry in this country being done away with. The railwaymen of Ireland were engaged in trying to set up a system that would warrant the working people on the other side to come over to Ireland to spend a holiday and study the Irish question. That was the reason that they wanted all this disturbance in Ireland to cease, and that spirit of friendship that existed between them and the workers on the other side to be further cemented by providing facilities for them to visit Ireland, as they had promised to do. For encouraging tourist traffic, a Board of Railwaymen had been formed, providing reasonable accommodation for people, so that they would not be fleeced by "profiteers." However, they had Lord Birkenhead saying that the war was still on in Ireland in its most intense form, and they had a Chief Secretary making a statement that the Irish people could have anything but independence and a republic. What steps had he taken to bring the people together and put some form of sane government before them? All the people wished for was some sane form of government to enable them to live in peace and quietness, and so to act in co-operation with every other people in the community. (Applause.) In connection with their tourist scheme, Mr. Crossley had received a letter from Mr. J. H. Thomas, M.P., General Secretary of the N.U.R., expressing his approval. If the Labour Party in England were worth their salt, Mr. Hennessy said, they should insist that the hand of friendship should be extended all over the world, and should not allow the workers to participate in, or tolerate, the present conditions. If they had the courage to do that their action would go down in history as one of the most beneficial acts conferred upon mankind. (Applause.)

Mr. J. Manwheeler, Dublin, who was a member of the deputation to London last week, said that he put the refusal of the sending of munitions to Poland before Mr. Thomas, and reminded him of Ireland's similar position. He did not advocate the spreading of the strike unless very grave conditions arose. For the present it should be confined to the North Wall.

Mr. Thomas Daly, Broadstone Branch, said that the North Wall trouble should be fought nationally. On Saturday night a case of rifles was taken to the Broadstone Station by military to be sent on. The men there absolutely refused to handle them, and had they been put on the train the driver would not have driven it. (Cheers.) The rifles were taken away again. (Cheers.)

A resolution was adopted instructing the Executive and the Irish Council, because of the position created owing to the rising cost of living and the protracted nature of the negotiations on standardisation, to take up with the Ministry of Transport the question of having all moneys due under the sliding scale to locomotive, traffic, and permanent way dépôts paid forthwith.

LABOUR DISPUTES.

DUBLIN COAL TRADE.

It is understood that the men employed in the Dublin coal trade have accepted an offer of 10d. per ton increase for dray and lorry men, 3d. per ton for banksmen, and £1 per week increase for men employed at a weekly wage.

DISPUTE IN RETAIL FISH TRADE.

A conference will be held to-day at the Ministry of Labour between the Dublin Fish and Poultry Merchants' Association and the Transport Union with a view to settling the dispute in the Dublin retail fish trade.

DUBLIN CARTERS.

Members of the Transport Union employed as carters in Dublin have agreed to accept an offer of 10s. a week increase on present rates, with the improved conditions regarding overtime and payment for holidays and stable duty.

THE TEACHERS' STRIKE.

It was stated on Saturday that the Central Executive Council of the Irish National Teachers' Organisation, at a meeting held on Saturday, voted a sum of £1,000 towards the secondary teachers' strike fund.

The strike of teachers in all the Christian Brothers' schools affected has been settled, and the teachers, it is understood, will resume duty this morning. This arrangement was reached on Saturday as the result of a conference, and it is believed that the interest of parents in the pupils attending the schools will result in producing largely increased funds.

"ARRESTS" BY SINN FEIN VOLUNTEERS.

"COURTS" ACTIVELY ENGAGED.

KILDARE CATTLE-DRIVING SEQUEL.

Some excitement has been caused throughout Kildare by the "arrest" of a number of men by the Sinn Fein Vigilance Committee, following the alleged stealing of a number of cattle. For a considerable time, it is stated, cattle have been missed by a number of farmers, but although the usual inquiries were made at fairs and markets no trace of the animals was found. A few nights since three head of cattle were reported missing from the Kilcullen district, as well as a number of sheep from the Curragh borders, with the result that the matter was, after fruitless inquiry, placed in the hands of the Sinn Fein Executive. The latter, it would seem, immediately investigated the matter, with the result that the Irish Volunteers motored to certain houses in the districts mentioned after midnight, and, arresting five men, took them away to some place of detention, where, it was stated, a "courtmartial" would be held and an inquiry made into the matter by the Sinn Fein "Court." One of the men who were taken away was subsequently released. Some surprising developments are expected as a result of the Sinn Fein inquiry. Already, it is said, some of the cattle have been returned to the owners from whom they were stolen.

KILDARE FARMERS' UNION AND IRISH VOLUNTEERS.

Mr. E. Fenelon, J.P., Chairman, presided at a special meeting of the Kilcullen branch of the Farmers' Union, when there was a large attendance of members.

Mr. F. V. De Vere, County Secretary, explained that the meeting had been called in connection with a series of thefts of cattle which had taken place in the district recently, and in connection with which none of the thieves had been apprehended and none of the missing property recovered. If something were not done to put an end to such violations of the laws of property, that no man would feel safe, and the object of the meeting was to take such steps as might be considered desirable with a view to securing that the rights of property should be safeguarded for the members of the Union.

Mr. D. B. Brennan, joint Hon. Secretary of the Kilcullen branch of the Co. Kildare Farmers' Union, said that he was glad to be able to inform the meeting that the three cattle that had been stolen from his land had been recovered. Only that morning he had received a message from the Irish Volunteers that the cattle had been found and put back on the land.

SINN FEIN "COURTS" IN LEITRIM.

Sinn Fein "Courts" seem to be actively at work throughout the County Leitrim, and their efforts to deal with cases seem successful in preventing would-be litigants resorting to the Petty Sessions or County Courts. In one case it is stated that the dog of a farmer bit the child of a neighbour, and proceedings were about to be instituted. Sinn Fein authorities, however, intervened and got the parties to agree to the decision of their "Court." The "Court" heard the evidence, and the Chairman and other adjudicators ordered the owner of the dog to pay a fine of 7s. 6d., and to have the dog shot. The order of the "Court" was obeyed.

NO CASES LISTED FOR PETTY SESSIONS.

Not a single case was listed for hearing at the Carrick-on-Shannon Petty Sessions Court on Friday. For some considerable time past this has been a regular occurrence.

MYSTERIOUS "ARREST" IN CO. CLARE.

On Saturday morning, at 3 o'clock, the house of a man residing at New Hall, about three miles from Ennis, was entered by an armed party, who compelled him to get out of bed and dress himself. They then took him away to "a place unknown," and he has not since been heard of.

INCENDIARISM IN COUNTY LOUTH.

BARRACKS AND COURTHOUSE DESTROYED.

The village of Louth, situate about six miles from Dundalk, was the scene of some excitement on Friday night, the villagers being held up by about a score of armed men while the disused police barracks and three other unoccupied houses in the same block were burned to the ground. At about 8.30 p.m. twenty men marched into the village, and at once ordered some people standing around to get straw and paraffin oil. Amongst the men so ordered was an ex-soldier. The house of Mr. John Byrne merchant, was visited, and Mr. Byrne ordered into a room at the point of a revolver. The armed men demanded some petrol, and were told that there was none to be had. They visited several other houses subsequently, including that of Dr. Connolly, medical officer for the district. While these movements were in progress scores of people, who had been assisting at a Service at the local Roman Catholic church, arrived on the scene. Young men armed with revolvers at once ordered them to stand at the entrance to the village while they lighted fires in the row of two-storeyed buildings. One of the houses so fired had been used as a Petty Sessions Court, and the books stored there were quickly burned. Early in January the police stationed in the barracks were withdrawn to town stations. All four houses were quickly alight, and in less than an hour the armed raiders had left the village, but not before the roofs of the buildings had fallen in. The men were all strangers to the district, and none wore masks or face-covering of any kind. All were armed, and they left towards the Channonrock road. While the fire was in progress armed scouts were placed on the roads close by. Hundreds of soldiers were rushed to the village on Saturday, but only a smouldering heap of debris remained of the fine block of buildings. Louth has been the scene of many a fierce election fight in the past, but its people have witnessed nothing so destructive as the proceeding of Friday night.

Up to the present five police barracks have been burned in the county, and the claims for malicious injury lodged with the County Council already amount to £40,000.

SHOTS FIRED IN LIMERICK.

MILITARY RESTRICTIONS RESENTED.

Our Limerick Correspondent states:—There is a tendency to increasing friction between the Constabulary and a large section of the populace owing to the increased restrictions regarding persons congregating in the streets and those out late at night. Resentment is stated to have been shown by persons who were challenged and searched by police patrols. Late on Saturday night a shot was fired at Blackboy Pike, just outside the borough boundary, and a man named Martin Kelly was shot in the thigh, but not dangerously wounded. He was removed to the County Infirmary, and is under treatment. He was talking to some men at the time, and it is alleged that as some lorries passed shots were fired, one of these hitting Kelly. Occupiers of houses in the Irishtown district were, it is stated, ordered to put out lights at eleven o'clock a few nights since, and did so.

MYSTERIOUS MANŒUVRES IN COUNTY WATERFORD.

The cutting of the wires to Ardmore and Clashmore, followed by the news that the drawbridge of the Blackwater Bridge was forcibly opened, and kept open, thereby preventing traffic by land, indicated that something unusual was happening in the neighbourhood of County Waterford. It was later ascertained that at 1 a.m. the caretaker was forced out and held up by a large party of masked and armed men, who compelled him to hand over the keys and gear of the bridge. Having opened the drawbridge they put up chains and other barricades, and posted sentries on all approaches. Later on they left, informing the caretaker that a message in the pillar box would tell where they keys were. Mr. Bowen, Waterford County Surveyor, arrived subsequently by motor car on his way to Cork. A messenger was sent to Youghal for the keys, and in the pillar box was found a note stating that the bridge keys would be found four hundred paces inland. After some search Mr. Bowen and the caretaker picked them up on Piltown road. At Ardmore it was ascertained that the local wires were cut, and also those linking up Ardmore and Helvick Head Coastguard Stations.

Before midnight a party of thirty to forty cyclists passed towards Youghal by the lower road and several motors by the upper. Further inquiries showed that nothing had happened either at Kiely's Cross or Clashmore. Beyond these facts nothing has come to light to indicate the objects of the manœuvres.

TRAIN ROBBED BY ARMED MEN.

Our Bantry Correspondent, telegraphing yesterday, says:—The train from Bantry to Cork on Saturday evening was held up at Durrus road, six miles from Bantry, by a party of armed and masked men, who entered the mail van and took away all the mail bags and then decamped. Soldiers and policemen are searching the locality.

STEEVENS'S HOSPITAL FETE.

In spite of the heavy downpour of rain, which marred to some extent the closing hours of the fête at Steevens's Hospital on Saturday evening, it is gratifying to be able to say that the undertaking as a whole has had a large measure of success, and that the object for which it was held has been realised. The three days over which the fête extended were very pleasant days for all those who took a share in promoting its success. The hospital, which has lived through its century of benevolent service not only to the citizens of Dublin, but to people far outside its ambit, has discovered that on its start into its second century it has a host of true and generous friends, who will never allow its functions for the alleviation of suffering humanity to be crippled or curtailed. The lady stallholders, who supplied many things, ornamental and useful, and all those ladies who so willingly assisted them, may well congratulate themselves upon the happy results of their efforts. Amongst the crowd of visitors on Saturday afternoon was Lady Greenwood, wife of the Chief Secretary for Ireland, who made a round of the stalls. There was a large attendance during the evening. The band of the Royal Hibernian School and the St. John Ambulance band supplied excellent music during the day, and in the evening the band of the Royal Irish Constabulary enlivened the dancing room, which was abundantly patronised.

THE ZOOLOGICAL GARDENS.

FORTHCOMING FETE.

An excellent concert was given in the theatre of the Royal Dublin Society, Leinster House, on Saturday afternoon, in the presence of a large audience. The programme was admirably selected, and the performance was keenly appreciated. Mr. E. Gordon Cleather lent distinction to the entertainment by his artistic rendering of two groups of songs, the first—"Triste est le steppe," "The Cloths of Heaven," "To Daisies," and "Marriage Morning"; second part—"Scythe Song," "The Devon Maid," "Sea Fever," and "The Jug of Punch." Mr. John Mundy delighted his hearers by his splendid 'cello playing. Mr. A. Edward Smith and Mrs. Hughes contributed each a couple of dainty vocal items, and Miss Rhoda Coghill played the piano with much ability and charm. Mr. W. E. Hopkins was conductor.

During an interval, Professor Dixon, M.D., thanked the artists and the audience for having come to the support of a movement which had been inaugurated with the special view of providing funds to keep the Royal Zoological Gardens going. If the Gardens were to be maintained, and kept in a manner worthy of the City of Dublin, their finances must be reorganised and their income augmented. Before the war the trustees were just barely able to carry on with the limited resources that they had. The income had fallen away lamentably, and on two occasions within a few years it looked as if the Gardens must be closed. That would be a calamity which everyone would deplore. (Hear, hear.) If the Gardens were once closed it was not probable that they would be re-opened in our lifetime. To avoid such a misfortune it had been arranged to hold a fête in the Gardens on June 25th and 26th. He hoped the undertaking would prove a financial success, and undoubtedly it would be a delightful social event.

AN EMBLEM OF ILL-NATURE.

Llama and alpaca are names given to domesticated flocks of the wild South American guanaco. The Incas of Peru and their Spanish conquerors used them as beasts of burden, and such they are still, as well as sources of wool and mutton substitute. Zoologically, as well as morally and intellectually, the llama is a camel. The latter has been selected as an emblem by the American "anti-Pussyfoots"; but the llama, if the Peruvian Postmaster-General does not claim it exclusively, awaits adoption by someone who suffers from worse than a mere "hump." It has only one joke, which consists in emptying a mouthful—or rather more, in fact—of chewed grass over the countenance of a too confiding admirer, and only two pleasures—biting and kicking. In Patagonia the guanacos perish in great numbers in severe winters beside the streams which remain longest unfrozen. This fact seems to be the basis of the story that the creature, when "fed up" with the world, betakes itself to a place chosen by its kind for dying in and there turns its face to the wall. The llama in the Dublin "Zoo" has maintained an interest in life and a taste for buns, unworthy of a cynic, longer than many of us remember.

MESSRS. J. W. ELVERY AND CO., LIMITED.

NEW PREMISES OPENED IN SACKVILLE STREET.

The completion of the buildings at the crossing of Sackville street and Abbey street shows that section of Dublin's principal thoroughfare to be one of the finest to be found in any city in the United Kingdom. The southern corner of Middle Abbey street and Lower Sackville street is occupied by the new premises of Messrs. J. W. Elvery and Company, Limited. The only portion of the old premises to be transferred to the new is the great rubber elephant which has so long been a familiar landmark in the thoroughfare. With a new coat of paint and new trappings the elephant is quite in keeping with his spick-and-span surroundings, and shows no permanent evidence of the trials he went through in 1916—indeed, in that respect he shares the good fortune of the O'Connell Monument and the other statues in the street. The new premises of Messrs. Elvery and Co., Ltd., are on a much more elaborate scale than the old, and in every way suitable to the large and growing business. The building comprises a basement and four floors, all of which are devoted to the requirements of the firm and their customers. In the basement there is a large and varied display of mechanical rubber goods, garden and suction hose, oilskin clothing, rick and cart covers, Dicks' Balata Belting, and so forth. The goods displayed on the spacious shop floor and in the windows include a large and varied selection of gents' rainproof and waterproof coats, driving aprons, rubber boots, leather suit-cases, and travelling requisites, as well as all requirements for tennis, polo, and bowls, including a special new consignment of tennis racquets of the best brands. The establishment is also a veritable Mecca for golfers, who are catered for to the smallest detail, while there are croquet sets of every description. The window display is of a most elaborate and up-to-date character. A wide staircase leads from the shop to the first floor, where ladies will find themselves in a magnificent wareroom, wherein they will find everything that they may desire in the form of waterproof and rainproof coats in the latest stripes, cloths, and colours; while children's waterproof and showerproof coats have been made a speciality, and there is a large variety of ladies' and children's bathing costumes and caps. The second floor is entirely devoted to the keeping of excess stock, so that customers' needs may be fully catered for. On the third floor is the cutting and repairs department, where goods used in all games are submitted to expert hospital treatment in the shortest possible time, and where rolls of cloth are rapidly converted into cart and rick covers, loin covers, motor and cycle clothing, driving aprons, and a hundred and one other useful forms. In the workrooms everything is handled by competent staffs, and nothing has been left undone by Messrs. Elvery not only to retain their large measure of public patronage, but to greatly extend their Dublin business as waterproofers and sport outfitters.

THE CHURCH OF IRELAND.

An Ordination was held yesterday in Christ Church Cathedral by the Archbishop of Dublin, when the following candidates were presented:—Priests—James Joseph Butler, B.A., Assistant Dean's Vicar, St. Patrick's Cathedral; Edward Leyland Lodwich, B.A., Curate of St. Paul's, Dublin; Philip Robert Ormsby, B.A., Curate of Delgany. The sermon was preached by the Dean of Christ Church.

TRINITY COLLEGE CHAPEL.

The Rev. R. H. Charles, Archdeacon of Westminster, was the preacher yesterday morning in the Chapel of Trinity College, Dublin. He spoke of the manifestation of God, and told how in the Mosaic days the words "Thou shalt have none other Gods before Me" did not assert that there was only one God, and did not require Israel to deny that other divinities existed for other nations. This primitive belief, which was permissible in the early stages of God's education of Israel, was not permissible at later times, when the prophets Isaiah, Amos, and Micah taught "There are no other Gods but Me," the one and only God, Who created Heaven and earth. Then the fatherhood of God was taught by Christ, and that was the only manifestation that could satisfy the human heart.

MATINEE IN AID OF MERCER'S HOSPITAL.

An enjoyable matinée, organised by Mr. and Mrs. Leggett Byrne, was given in the Theatre Royal on Saturday in aid of Mercer's Hospital. The programme was the same as those at the performances recently given to assist the funds of children's hospitals in the city, and included dances of different nationalities, idylls, and flower revels. The dancing of the children was delightful to behold, and it was evident that no pains had been spared by Mr. and Mrs. Leggett Byrne in the task of preparation. Amongst the children taking the leading parts were:—Hazel Smith, Morag Wylie, Norah Little, Robin MacDonnell, Beatrice Leggett Byrne, Leonora Harper, Dorothy Scott, Dorothy Evans, Gabrielle Garland, Tom Smith, Rosie Zeider, Gertrude Normanton, Joannie Gibson, Eileen Wyly, G. Dawson, and Miss Lumsden. Many of them were recalled by the audience, and had to repeat their dances. In a charming playlet, entitled "The Butterfly's Revenge," the little ones were particularly good, and were frequently applauded.

ST. VINCENT DE PAUL NIGHT SHELTER.

A public meeting was held yesterday at 23 Upper Sackville street, Dublin, for the purpose of raising a fund with which to carry on the Night Shelter for Roman Catholic Men in Back lane (off Nicholas street), Dublin. Right Rev. Monsignor Dunne, P.P., presided.

The Committee submitted a report of the work done by the Night Shelter during the past two years. As its name implied, the Shelter was intended for homeless Catholic men, but the guests received a great deal more than mere shelter. Advice and assistance was given to every guest, and he was encouraged to renewed effort. The figures in 1918 were:—Admissions, 10,107; meals, 15,009. In 1919—Admissions, 11,606; meals, 17,400. In addition to supper being supplied to the men each evening, breakfast was served on all Sundays throughout the year, and on week-days during the winter months. There was a big increase in the admissions so far this year. In 1919, owing to a big institution in the city having closed down, a number of men who could not obtain lodgings elsewhere had to seek refuge in the Shelter or sleep out. Demobilisation had seriously depressed the labour market by causing widespread unemployment, and even young men at present found it hard to obtain work. In the case of middle-aged and elderly men the difficulty was proportionately increased. This would mean a heavy additional strain on the funds of the institution during the coming year, and the Committee, therefore, confidently appealed for a continuance of the support which enabled them to carry on the work in the past.

Sir Joseph Glynn moved the adoption of the report. He said that he had had personal experience of the work which the Shelter had done since its institution in 1912. They gave food and shelter each year to between 12,000 and 14,000 poor men who had no homes of their own. The heavy drain upon the resources of the Shelter for the past two years had left them with a present deficit of £1,500. The persons who received help and shelter were not looked upon as paupers; they were received as brothers of the members of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul and honoured guests of the Society. The Shelter was carried on not as a charity, but as an expression of practical brotherly love. It was not a place where wastrels were received, who were drifting about the city looking for anything but work. All such persons were excluded. Those who were provided for were the casual labourer, provided that he did not come too often; the countryman who came to the city in search of work and was disappointed; and the third class was the man who had no money and no home. The countryman they sent back to where he came from as soon as possible. The Shelter was not by any means a place of luxury. The men got a supper of dry bread and a pint of good cocoa, and on Sunday a breakfast. It was a pity that the Committee could not afford to give the men a breakfast on Monday morning when setting out in search of work, and they hoped that this appeal would enable them to do so. The Shelter had enabled many a decent poor man to start a career of industry.

Rev. J. Flanagan seconded the motion, and the report was adopted.

Mr. James Mahony moved a resolution that the Night Shelter was deserving of the continued support of the citizens of Dublin, and that a subscription list be opened. He quoted several instances in which the Shelter had been the means of saving cold, hungry, and wretched men from physical and moral wreck. These poor fellows were welcomed to the Shelter, and the members of the Committee were delighted to receive them and to act as waiters on them. He hoped the generous public would support the Shelter for the good work it was doing. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. William Field seconded, and the resolution was passed.

Among the subscriptions received was £100 from Archbishop Walsh.

INTERMEDIATE SUPERINTENDENTSHIPS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As an Intermediate superintendent of many years' standing, I should like to endorse every statement in Mr. O'Connor's letter, published in to-day's issue of your paper. In addition to the overcrowded time-table the number of superintendents has been considerably reduced, and centres in consequence amalgamated. This means that a school which formerly had two, or in some cases three, superintendents has now only one. What it means to have a centre presenting, say, from sixty to seventy candidates, half taking science and drawing and half the commercial course, only those with experience of the possibilities presented by the present congested time-table can understand. If a superintendent is conscientious (and we are all supposed to be that), the close of the examination finds him or her in a condition of nervous exhaustion. The same, of course, can be said of the candidates.

The shortening of the time-table means a decrease in the superintendent's remuneration, already small enough. At a time when one has to pay from 9s. to 10s. a day upwards for the poorest accommodation, it is nothing short of a scandal that the allowance has not been increased to meet the cruel increase in the expenses incurred by those serving the Board. Double the present figure would hardly bring it up to pre-war level. We superintendents have suffered patiently all through these expensive years since 1914, hoping that the Board would do something to ameliorate these conditions, and are now reluctantly compelled to raise our voices in protest. If anything is to be done, it must be done now, and not next year. The matter is one which obviously calls for immediate action.—Yours, etc.,

"INTERMEDIATE SUPERINTENDENT."

A Stockholm telegram, dated Friday, states: Dr. Nansen, interviewed, said that the number of war prisoners remaining in Siberia was estimated at 200,000. In Germany there were probably 200,000 Russian prisoners, and 20,000 in France. The great difficulty of repatriation from Siberia was transport.

There was a moderate demand for weekly fixtures at 5½ p.c. Dividends to a total of nearly half a million were disbursed to-day. On Tuesday, the last day of the month, the demand for accommodation is likely to be keen, as apart from window-dressing operations, calls on new capital exceed 3½ millions. FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

Until we get the Government's decision on the war wealth levy the business world will be kept in an uncomfortable state of suspense, not conducive to activity. The fall in commodity prices has created certain difficulties, but, on the other hand, the check administered to speculation has made money more procurable. There are all kinds of contradictory influences at work (says the Sunday Times) which may keep markets hesitating and unsettled for a long time to come. Take the shipping position, for instance. Two leading authorities during the past week have expounded diametrically opposite views. While the prevailing uncertainty is largely due to taxation problems, there are other factors which enter into the calculation. Of these, labour unrest, the progress of Bolshevik ideas, and the unsettled state of Ireland all contribute their quota. There is also the ill-success of the Treasury Bonds, which may compel the Government to offer still more favourable terms on Treasury bills, with the inevitable result of forcing a rise in the Bank rate. But we hope for a better public response to these Bonds. Now that gilt-edged things generally have risen so considerably they are really attractive.

The recovery of the French and German exchanges, although not fully maintained, is in itself a satisfactory feature, based as it is upon the prospects of measures of rehabilitation being decided upon at the coming Brussels conference. But it has had the effect of creating fresh troubles among Continental speculators, for which we have had to suffer in the form of further liquidation of foreign bonds. These results, however, are merely temporary, whereas the rally in the exchanges may well mark the commencement of a better order throughout Europe.

The Junior Army and Navy Stores, which is in liquidation for the purpose of amalgamation with the Civil Service Co-operative Society, gives notice that under the amalgamation agreement each member of the liquidating company is entitled to one fully paid-up Preference Share of £1 each in the Society in respect of each share held in the liquidating company, conditionally upon the member making application in writing to the liquidators for such Preference Shares within one month, and providing that every member who fails to apply shall be deemed to have waived all right to the shares. Applications up to 30th June will be entertained.

The holders of Tanganyika Concessions First Mortgage Debentures of £8 each, repayable 30th June, 1920, should lodge their Bonds at the registered office of the company, Friars House, New Broad street, London, E.C., as soon as possible for repayment on that date.

WEEKLY TRADE REPORT.

There is little particularly new to feature in trade and industry over the week. Holidays have more or less interfered with business, and there have been no further definite developments in the collapsable disposition in markets and speculative situation generally previously referred to under this heading. With regard to tea, although the public market has been closed until 31st inst., private realisations continue to be effected at cheaper and irregular prices. The wool position, as reflected from Yorkshire, also is in a very uncertain state, and much interest and anxiety attaches to the resumption of London sales next Tuesday, when competition ought to show the true basis of values and bring about greater confidence in business. For the home clip of wool, what has changed hands so far indicates a drop of 3d. to 6d. on last season's opening terms.

MARKET REPORTS.

CATTLE.—NORWICH, Saturday.—Fat cattle and sheep were shown in very small numbers, the former being of fair quality and all taken locally, while the sheep were quite insufficient for the demand. There was a good supply of fat pigs, but trade was not very fast at prices up to 30/- per 14lb. dead weight. The offering of store cattle was quite equal to the demand and trade was slow and dragging at prices similar to last week. Store sheep in fair supply and keen demand; couples realised up to 210/-, and others to 180/-. Hoggets sold well, although not of good quality, at 60/- to 120/-. Not such a good trade for store pigs.

GRAIN.—CARLISLE, Saturday.—Small supply of oats at to-day's market. Steady demand at current rates.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES.—BALTIC, Saturday.—WHEAT — No Government allocations transpired. MAIZE quiet and easier; steamer cargoes Plate June-July and July-August quoted 81/-, sailers (ex bags) afloat 82/-, loading 81/-, parcels of ditto afloat quoted 70/6, June-July 75/6, July-August 76/- per 480lbs. BARLEY quiet; Californian June-July quoted 110/- to 113/-, new crop September-October 105/-, No. 4 Canada Western June-July 78/6, Canada Feed 77/6. LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—There were no c.i.f. parcels of wheat put out on sale to-day by the Commission. Maize parcels River Plate were again dull and easier, sellers offering at 70/- afloat, and 73/6 per quarter June-July shipment, but no business transpired. WHEAT on the spot ruled quiet, but steady, at yesterday's market currencies. MAIZE—Spot parcels still quiet at about late rates for American mixed, but River Plate easier, with actually ready for delivery offered at 15/7 to 15/9 per cental. FLOUR remained quiet at official rates. Yellow River Plate maize "futures" neglected, and nominally 1d. per cental under last night in sympathy with easiness in c.i.f. parcels. PROVISIONS.—DUBLIN POTATO, Saturday.—Moderate supplies coming forward. Slow trade at 12/- to 12/6 per cwt.; Scottish, 13/6 to 14/-.

LIVERPOOL, Saturday.—Stocks in importers' hands of American BACON are liberal, and include Wiltshires, bellies, and Cumberlands, though the demand shows little or no improvement, and few sales transpire, the prices at which Danish and Irish are selling comparing very favourably and precluding chance of much movement in American descriptions. Supplies of Danish and Irish, however, are somewhat limited, Labour troubles still causing delay in delivery, and anything offered finds ready acceptance. HAMS in only moderate supply, and holders push fresh Cumberlands in conjunction with the hams. Shoulders still quiet, and fresh squares would be taken if obtainable. LARD on the spot continues in free supply of both prime steam and American refined, but buyers continue to operate very cautiously. FATAL RIFLE ACCIDENT.

YOUNG SOLDIER SHOT AT DUBLIN.

Dr. Louis A. Byrne, City Coroner, held an inquest at King George V. Hospital, Dublin, on Saturday, touching the death of Private Joseph Clarkson, 1st Battalion King's Own Lancaster Regiment, who was shot on Thursday evening last as the result of the accidental discharge of a bullet from the rifle of another soldier in the military quarters at the Chief Secretary's Lodge.

Inspector Crosbie was present on behalf of the Dublin Metropolitan Police.

Lieut. H. D. Murrane, who identified the body, said that Private Clarkson was aged 19, and was single. About 6 o'clock he found the deceased lying dead in the courtyard of the men's quarters.

Private Farimond gave evidence that the deceased man, Private Maccro, and he were in the military quarters on Thursday evening. Private Maccro was cleaning his own rifle, and a shot went off, the bullet striking Private Clarkson, who rolled over in his bed against the wall. Clarkson and Maccro were chatting and joking before the shot went off.

Capt. E. C. Lambkin, R.A.M.C., described the wound, which started level with, and just to the right of, the point of the chin, and ran downwards and inwards. Death was due to shock and hemorrhage.

Sergeant Grayston, 1st Battalion King's Own Lancaster Regiment, said that, hearing an explosion in the room, he went in and found the deceased man lying bleeding from a wound in the throat. He had him removed to the open air, and telephoned for the ambulance. He locked the rifle up. The men were all friends.

Private Shaw stated that Clarkson and Maccro were always jolly and friendly with each other.

Sergeant Roche, Dublin Metropolitan Police, gave evidence of having found a bullet mark on the wall over the bed where the deceased man was, and a piece of Service casing bullet near it.

Private Maccro, having been cautioned, gave evidence of having put cartridges into the magazine previous to pulling it up. He accidentally pulled the trigger, and the deceased man fell. They were on friendly terms, and had been together all day.

The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence, and exonerated Private Maccro from all blame.

LEINSTER SENIOR LEAGUE.

PHŒNIX v. DUBLIN UNIVERSITY.

PHŒNIX WIN ON FIRST INNINGS.

Play in this Senior League game, which was continued on Saturday on the Phœnix ground was greatly interrupted by rain, and altogether only two and a half hours' play was possible. In that time Dublin University, who on Friday night had left off with four wickets down for 41, in reply to the Phœnix total of 295, completed their innings for 81, and, having to follow on 214 runs behind, lost four wickets for 106, when at 5.30 rain necessitated an abandonment. The last six 'Varsity wickets fell in forty minutes for an addition of 41 runs. Henslip alone played with any confidence, and added 18 to his overnight score of 20 before he was unluckily run out. Fowler bowled with great success, getting five wickets for 15 runs. The students at their second effort did much better, thanks principally to Rollins, who, when play stopped, was 60 not out. He gave a masterly display during a stay of one and a half hours at the wicket, and hit 6 fours. Kelly, who got 12, was batting an hour, and in partnership with Rollins added 40 for the second wicket. Later Rollins and Price made a useful stand, the latter getting 20 not out. Phœnix thus won by 214 runs on the first innings. Score:—

CIVIL SERVICE v. CLONTARF.

RAIN CAUSES ABANDONMENT.

After twice previously stopping play, rain finally caused the abandonment of this match, played in the Phoenix Park on Saturday. The visitors had first knock, and compiled 85, the chief contributors to this total being J. Ledwidge, who was responsible for no less than 30 of his side's score. E. Taylor was the most successful of the Service bowlers, and he had the fine figures of seven wickets for 38 runs. P. Murphy's three cost 41. Civil Service had scored 15 for the loss of one wicket when rain stopped play. Score:—

LEINSTER v. R. AND S.P.U.

CENTURY BY R. H. LAMBERT.

Just two hours' play was possible at Rathmines in the above match on Saturday, when rain forced a closure at 5.30, after Leinster had declared their innings at 200 for seven wickets. Of this total the evergreen R. H. Lambert, who went in first and was last out, made exactly 100, hitting 14 fours. He played with judicious restraint while in partnership with F. Kempster, whose hard driving was in strong contrast. At 35 Lambert gave a chance high up in slips. Kempster made 70 in an hour, hitting 11 fours. None of the other Leinster batsmen fared well, although it must be said the wicket was sticky towards the end. While the Railway Union's fielding was keen as usual, there were a couple of weak spots. L. Bookman, who bore the brunt of the bowling, took four wickets for 60, and E. Hool had two for 70. In all seven bowlers were tried. Score:—

TRINITY WEEK.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY v. DERBYSHIRE.

Should the weather prove favourable, cricket devotees are promised a most interesting match in the College Park to-day and to-morrow. With commendable enterprise, Dublin University decided on opening Trinity Week with a match against Derbyshire. It is many years since Irish cricket enthusiasts were afforded the opportunity of witnessing the play of an English county eleven, and we hope that the attendances in the College Park on both days will be such as to encourage the College to bring over other county teams in future years. Play will commence each day at 12 o'clock, the luncheon interval will be from 1.45 to 2.30, the tea interval 4.30 to 4.45, and play will close at 7 o'clock. Teams:—

Derbyshire—J. Chapman, L. Oliver, G. R. Jackson, B. S. Hill-Wood, Cadman, Morton, Beet, Wild, Storer, Revill, Bestwick, Woodland.

PHŒNIX v. DUBLIN GARRISON.

This match, listed for Friday and Saturday next on the Phœnix ground, has been cancelled.

GLOUCESTERSHIRE v. YORKSHIRE.

A lot of rain fell in Gloucester on Friday night, and winning the toss in this match, the opening fixture of the Gloucester revival, the visiting captain put the home team in to bat first, a policy subsequent events fully justified, as in about one hour and forty minutes the whole side was out for the meagre total of 60. The wicket had improved when Yorkshire went in. The batsmen at the outset found runs difficult to get, the fielding of the home team being very good. Rhodes was the only man to make a lengthy stay at the wickets, and his 64, which included eight fours, was obtained in an hour and forty minutes without giving a chance. Burton and Rhodes put on 77 for the sixth wicket, and the innings, which lasted ten minutes over three hours, closed for 229 runs. In a deficit of 169 Gloucestershire had about half an hour's batting. Score:—

LEICESTERSHIRE v. KENT.

Play in this match at Leicester on Saturday was interrupted by a heavy thunderstorm, which broke over the district shortly after lunch, while showers earlier in the day put the start back 40 minutes. Kent batted first, and in the hour available before lunch they lost the wicket of Harding with the total at 39. Shortly after the resumption the storm delayed play for two hours, following which there was a spell of bright and interesting cricket. Seymour and Woolley ran the total into three figures in rather less than two hours. Afterwards there was a brisk display on the part of Beeching and Hubble, who between them scored 41 runs in twenty-five minutes. Half the side was out for 158 runs, but the last half an hour was fateful to Kent, three more wickets falling for the increase of only 26 runs. Score:—

EX-OFFICER ROBBED NEAR DERRY.

A young Londonderry demobilised officer was ambushed on the roadside near Londonderry late on Friday night and robbed. It appears that the ex-officer was returning home from Coshquin, and when near the city he was suddenly seized by three men, who are stated to be ex-soldiers. They called on him to put up his hands, stating that they were Volunteers and were going to search him for firearms. He refused to put his hands up, and then two of them produced revolvers and fired several shots in the air. Afterwards they presented the weapons at his head and proceeded to search him. No firearms or ammunition were found on him, but the assailants took possession of his pocket wallet and extracted the contents, amounting to £7 or £8. They then handed him back his empty wallet, and, after threatening him, departed. The police are investigating the matter.

DERRY SHOOTING AFFAIR.

At a special court in Londonderry on Saturday afternoon, before Major Brett, R.M., District Inspector Walsh charged an ex-soldier named James McCloskey, of Bridge street, with shooting at an ex-soldier named Samuel Wray, of Wapping lane, with intent to kill. The evidence was to the effect that the accused ran out of the shop with the boots, and that Mrs. Farrell, owner of the shop, followed him to the New Eagle Bar. He had not the boots then. When Mrs. Farrell would not let him go he assaulted her, and she gave him into custody. Mr. D. A. Quaid appeared for the defence.

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL SOCIETY OF IRELAND.—On Saturday afternoon the members of the above Society were welcomed at the National Library of Ireland by T. W. Lyster, M.A., Librarian, and his colleagues. After tea an interesting paper on Dublin music printing from 1685 to 1750 was read on behalf of Dr. Grattan Flood by F. W. Poulter, Hon. Secretary. This resumé constitutes a period when music printing was by no means a regular business, as many years elapse between the dates of any of the existing specimens. The earliest known example is Robert Thornton, of 1686; after him comes Brent and Powell of 1698, and Button in 1713. Between 1731 and 1750, the two most prominent are Neale and Mainwaring, followed by Hoey, Powell, Exshaw, and Kelly. Opportunity was taken to show a large number of rarities, and to illustrate the paper a splendid collection of early Dublin printed music was on view. Amongst the latter were the following:—Neale's "Playhouse Tunes," "The Beggar's Opera," "Polly," 1728-29; Neale and Mainwaring, "Songs out of the Masque of Comus," 1740, and Exshaw's Magazine, 1743. Dr. Kirkpatrick, who presided, thanked Mr. Lyster and his colleagues for providing such an excellent afternoon's entertainment, and expressed the pleasure of the Society in listening to Dr. Flood's valuable contribution to a neglected branch of Irish Bibliography.
